Firefighters OK; 5 injured in training fire

Flashover causes accident

By KENNETH PATCHEN Staff Reporter

Firefighters train with live fire, but no one tells fire what to do.

Sunday afternoon, May 16 at 1:35 p.m., five members of the Antioch Fire Department First Fire Protection District were injured when the first floor of the home in which they were training was engulfed in flames during an incident described as a flash over.

Four injured firefighters were transported to local area hospitals. One firefighter was transported by Rockford REACT Medical Helicopter to a burn unit as a precautionary measure.

Medical concern for the airlifted firefighter was related to the location of burns and concern with possible burns of air passages.

Three firefighters received first degree burns and two received second degree burns to facial areas.

All injured firefighters were released by 6 p.m. Sunday evening.

Participating in the rescue were units from Antioch, Fox Lake, Round Lake, Lake Villa, Newport Township, and Salem, Wis.

The first floor flash over occurred during the final phase of the almost day-long training event.

Firefighter training sessions start early in the day with search and rescue sessions. Firefighters practice skills to find people in rooms filled with smoke.

Ventilation training is the second phase and involves use of equipment to open passages for air. Ventilation training took place on a roof garage adjacent to the home.

Live-fire training is a third phase.

Trainees enter rooms that have been set on fire by instructors so they may observe how fires burn a room. When instructed, trainees then extinguish the blaze.

At the end of all training sessions, the entire structure is allowed to burn down since it is no longer considered safe for entry. It was at this point during training that five firefighters were injured during Sunday's incident.

Lake Villa, Fox Lake, and Antioch firefighters participated in the livefire training. Firefighters from Wilmot, Trevor, and Salem, Wis. and Richmond, Ill. also participated in the training.

In the morning, before live fire training, the plans were described for firefighters in all seven training groups.

"They're all going in on the actual live fire burns," said Bob "B.J."
Johnson of the Antioch department.
"We're going to try to do 14 live fire training evolutions." That provides each department with two opportunities for training during the session.

nities for training during the session.

Johnson had said that the department was very grateful for the donation of the home so they could have the training sessions.

He said that it was a good house on which to practice putting out a fire. "It's old and it's solid," he said. "It's well built and well constructed."

Firefighters can have more individual group training sessions since the house can be set on fire and extinguished many times.

Training burns are conducted with specific safety procedures which also are followed during actual fires. For example, all firefighters in a burning building are monitored by a team member who has their name-tag on a clip board.

During training sessions, unsafe conditions are immediately corrected to minimize or eliminate accidents. During the Sunday morning training, firefighters were instructed by Johnson to nail safety footholds on the roof near a front window to provide safer access to an exit ladder.

This training burn was the first opportunity for the Antioch Fire Department to train with a CAIRNS IRIS camera helmet. It permits

"We've got an unlimited opportunity to sell bricks for folks that are interested," Ted Axton said. He is encouraging people to make their decisions now so they will not be disappointed when the official cut-off date arrives, Sunday, July 4, 1999.

Community residents, businesses, and organizations have been purchasing any one of three sizes of bricks that are available. The bricks will be engraved with names, statements, or logos to remember people or events. The bricks will be professionally installed as a walkway into the Brook Wetland Sanctuary area starting at Orchard Street and Skidmore Drive on the east side of the downtown business district.

Parks dept to remodel facility for programs

By KENNETH PATCHEN Staff Reporter

The Antioch Parks and Recreation Department has received a central facility for programs and administration from the Village of Antioch.

Planning meetings to design the new space will be held by the Park Board during the summer. Initial use plans have already been discussed at the staff level for presentation to the park board.

Remodeling of the facility for park programs will be done during the winter by village public works employees. "We're probably looking at a target date of Summer 2000 use," said Village Manger Tim Wells. "It gives us a lot more flexibility in what we can do."

The building is attached to the former Robert and Irene Griffin House on Holbek Drive. The home will be used for park and recreation department administrative offices. Park programs will be sponsored in the large building attached to the house.

"The portion that is not used for fire (department) storage will be used for parks and recreation," said Wells.

The need for the building arrived at the same time that the opportunity to use the building became available.

"I think we have a lot more programs than ever before," said parks and recreation department

BROOK: Brick-buying to end

Park play structure that community residents built to commemorate Antioch's first century. Centennial Park is located on Anita Avenue.

Ted Axton said that the response from the business community has been very good. In addition, community organizations have participated. The vast majority of bricks are purchased by individuals who wish to help create the downtown sanctuary and recreation area.

Vickie Axton said that more than 150 people have made donations for bricks of various sizes. "The majority are four-by-eights," she said.

There are many people who plan to purchase the 12 by 12 and 20 by 20 inch size blocks, according to Ted Axton. The designs for some of the bricks already purchased hint at the future colorfulness of the walk-

The 885 Civic Club has committed itself to purchase five blocks. Some will include color designs of their logos, such as organizational symbols and rainbows.

Pickard China has contributed a special design. It includes their founding date of 1893 as well as notice that they have been an Antioch industry since 1938. Pickard China is known throughout the world as a premium quality product.

"The Antioch Woman's Club and Antioch Junior Woman's Club are going to share a brick," said Vickie Axton. They have donated a 12 by 12 inch brick. Both clubs are chapters of the same state federation of woman's clubs.

One former resident who now lives in Wisconsin sent in a donation for a memorial brick from Germany. Others have come in from places beyond Antioch from people who still remember their ties here.

A man living in Glencoe saw an advertisement about the brick donation program in the Market Journal and sent in his contribution.

This summer, a new family will move into Antioch. Their home is being readied for them at this time. They saw an advertisement about the program and sent in their contribution to purchase a brick.

According to Vickie Axton, Antioch Community Consolidated School District 34 will have a brick on the walk. It will highlight the district attitude, "Children First."

The National Junior Honor Society at Antioch Upper Grade School will contribute a brick. However, their contributions are not limited to this commemorative brick. "They also help with the Arbor Day tree planting," said Vickie Axton.

"There's a few that are 'thank yous' to Bill Brook," she said. Many people in Antioch are able to relate personal, meaningful moments in their lives when State Bank of Antioch owner Bill Brook affected their lives and helped them. Some bricks are an extension of that sense of appreciation.

Lyons-Ryan donates car to RLHS

By KENNETH PATCHEN Staff Reporter

Students at Round Lake High School will have a modern Ford Probe to dismantle, rebuild, finetune and fix in order to help them develop their diagnostic and repair skills.

The vehicle was donated by Lyons-Ryan Ford-Lincoln-Mercury, of Antioch, to the Auto Shop Program at RLHS School on Friday, May 14.

Bob Kouba, Service Director of Lyons-Ryan Ford, said that the high school car repair program provides interested students with a solid foundation of fundamental skills for further work at technical schools, such as the Technology Campus at College of Lake County in Grayslake. The company has supported the program in the past with both vehicles, diagnostic equipment, engines, transmissions, and parts.

"We give them a lot of individual pieces they like to take apart," said Kouba.

"We've donated other vehicles in the past," Kouba said. One past vehicle was a Thunderbird. "They took it apart so many times they wore it out."

The RLHS program also helps students acquire skills that they can take to a dealership or auto repair business to begin work as a mechanic.

New cars are donated to the Auto Shop Program so that students can work on vehicles with the latest equipment, technology, and concepts. In addition, it allows students to get a sense of the entire vehicle and its problems, not just bits and pieces of one.

Lyons-Ryan Ford donated a 1995 Ford Probe this year. "The vehicle is in 'like-new' condition," Kouba said.

In addition, the dealership passed along manuals and diagnostic tools.

"The '95 Probe was a pretty advanced car in its day," he said. The cylinder head design and the injection fuel system can provide relevant knowledge to students about modern cars. Plus, the car is small and will fit into the classroom.

Auto Shop programs are a dwindling type of classroom instruction. School administrators close the programs over the years and new ones are not started. The Round Lake High School auto shop class is one of the few remaining in the area. Kouba said it is a good program because the teachers there are so good. "(Hoosh Ameri) tries his best to give them the best launch there is."

"They usually have about 25 kids in any program," he said. "There are girls that get pretty heavily involved at times.

High school programs expand the pool of talented people who can work as mechanics. In addition, classes may attract students who did not previously know they had an aptitude for vehicle repair.

College of Lake County has an auto repair training program at its Technology Campus. "They're very limited in the number of kids they can take," Kouba said.

Students who like to repair cars also can participate in regional, state, and national diagnostic competi-tions. Usually two students are provided a car with something wrong. They compete against other teams to diagnose and repair the problem.

"We have sponsored students in the past who thought they had good diagnostic skills." One year, a Lyons-Ryan sponsored team placed first in state competition and 13 in national competition.

"We were very very glad to help the kids achieve that," Kouba said.

Lyons-Ryan Ford Lincoln Mercury Inc. has been a consistent supporter of Auto Shop Programs over the years. "(Kevin Lyons) has backed this program 100 percent since we kicked it off several years ago," said Kouba. The dealership not only obtains the vehicle from Ford Motor Company, but also donates the time involved to make the donation and follow-up supervision.

firefighters to see through smoke in order to rescue people and to locate the fire more quickly.

Also present at the burn was the Quad 2 Fire Departments Rehab Unit. The rehab unit provides liquids to replenish water loss, refreshments, and lunch. Handing out food and drinks to training participants were Donna Sakalowski, Marge Klean, Diane Shannon, Tami Glassner, and Barb Reulbach.

The Antioch fire department recently sponsored a raffle to raise funds for an Infra-red imaging camera system that attaches to a helmet. It permits firefighters to see through dense, black smoke to help locate victims as well as fire locations.

"We received them two-and-ahalf weeks ago," said Johnson. "We've got two on site. We're training with them today."

Traffic on North Avenue was blocked between Nelson Road and Deep Lake Road. The Lake County Sheriffs Department provided assistance for travelers for detour routes.

The home donated for the training was at 22514 West North Avenue.

Antioch crime rate on downward spiral

Annual crime rates tabulated by law enforcement professionals show a drop in the Antioch crime rate.

"We're very pleased to announce that the total crime index has gone down," said Mayor Marilyn Shineflug. She released the information at the Monday, May 3 village board meeting.

"We just got a copy of the statistics," she said. "This is the rate per 100,000 (people)."

The 1998 drop in the total crime index is the third consecutive year of decline in Antioch. The 1998 total crime index was 263, 1997 was 367, and 1996 was 490.

The largest change in 1998 reported crimes was in the category of burglary, a decrease of -65.1 percent. Another large drop was in the category of motor vehicle theft, minus 46.7. Theft also decreased, minus 23.1.

The FBI Uniform Crime Report is an annual statistical analysis of eight types of crime for virtually all law enforcement agencies in the United States.

The Antioch rate reflects the decrease in Lake County major crimes which has been underway the past three years.

Antioch to hire two police officers

The Village of Antioch may soon have three new police officers.

Village trustees authorized Police Chief Charles Watkins to offer two police officer positions to candidates on the department's eligibility list at their Monday, May 3 village board meeting.

In addition, trustees authorized Watkins to offer a third position to another person if the federal government confirms authorization of a grant to hire a school-based police officer.

One position is new and will be financed by a federal COPS Fast grant. Village administrator Tim Wells said, "That is a community service police officer." Another position will be financed by a three year federal grant of $125,000. The officer will serve in Antioch schools as well as provide summertime park patrol services. Wells has said at past village board meetings that new officers will be added to the department when the federal grants end. The need for additional officers on the force will be met by these positions at that time

Memorial services set for May, 31

Memorial Day services have been scheduled for Monday, May 31 at the Antioch Veterans of Foreign Wars Sequoit Post 4551 at 11 a.m.

"The public is cordially invited," said post member Al Himber.

The services will be held by Antioch Boy Scout and Girl Scout Troops at the hall at 75 North Avenue.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Antioch Veterans of Foreign Wars Post, the American Legion Post, and Sequoit Post 4551 will also participate.

Troop offers picnic tables for sale

By KENNETH PATCHEN Staff Reporter

Boy Scouts are earning money for their summer camping activities the old fashioned way- they are building picnic tables and selling them.

People can step up to buy one of the 30 tables they plan to build and take delivery by Sunday, May 30, just in time for Memorial Day.

Parents and scouts in Troop 188 will build tables from 2-inch select pressure treated wood or cedar lumber. They are built in the classic 6foot A-frame style with stainless street screw and bolt construction. No staples or nails are used to build

The tables can be stained, sealed, or left natural.

Delivery is included in the price. People who would like to order a table can contact Randy (838-0718) or Tony (356-1535).

Only a limited number of tables will be made in order to meet the troops financial needs. Cedar tables are $220 and Pressure treated wood tables are $145.

Table sale proceeds are used to pay costs associated with troop members' summer camping experiences, additional camping equipment, and other scouting programs during the year.

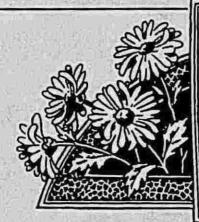

This is the third year the troop has built tables for sale to area residents.

Troop members are from Lindenhurst, Lake Villa, and Antioch. The troop is co-sponsored by Lake Villa United Methodist Church and Prince of Peace Catholic Church. Scouts undertake service projects and team and skill building exercises.

RESUME

Birdwatching in the Bahamas by JIM WARNKEN, President, North Star Travel, Inc.

RSVP

I was recently made aware of the growing number of "birdwatchers". Even my sister, a long time, downtown Chicago resident, is among them. Yes, there are birds to be found in even the most urban areas.

I also found it interesting that in their quest to add more of the species to the list of birds they have observed, 10 times as many birdwatchers than honeymooners, travel each year.

That definitely interested me, so I did some research as to where they travel. I found that the islands of the Bahamas offer birdwatchers the opportunity to view as many as 28 different species of birds they won't find anywhere else. Additionally, there are a number of "bird walks" offered which tour the habitats of these birds.

These birding tours range from a casual walk through the countryside to a week long scientific count of migrating birds. A good place to start would be The Retreat in Nassau, which is the headquarters of the Bahamas National Trust. A free two-hour, naturalist-led birdwatching tour is offered on the first Saturday of each month.

A fun way to find birds is by kayak or bicycle. Both tours are offered by Pedal & Paddle Ecoventures Ltd in Nassau. For about $50 a person you get a half-day tour by bike or kayak.

For the more athletic, Kayak Nature Tours offers a 5-hour kayak trip, for about $75, to Water Cay, the only inhabited island off the north shore of Grand Bahamas Island. This trip does involve some strenuous paddling.

East End Adventures offers a birdwatching journey by jeep to the deserted end of Grand Bahamas Island, which includes a lunch on the beach. Cost is about $100.

If you do vacation in Nassau, at the very least, you've got to visit Ardastra Gardens. There you will find an old Bahamian gentleman who has dedicated his whole life to training flamingos how to march. West Point has nothing on theses birds as they march in columns and respond to their trainers' commands.

The real birdwatcher would, however, want to visit Great Inagua Cay to visit the world's largest population (60,000) of West Indian flamingos.

If you're already an avid birdwatcher, or if you think you may want to give this growing hobby a try, the Bahamas deserve a visit.

LOCAL DIGEST

Depot Street Improvements

Village trustees passed a resolution Monday, April 19 that will save the village money on engineering costs for scheduled improvements to Depot Street.

"This is a good news item," Village Manager Tim Wells told trustees before the discussion and vote.

The Depot Street project will extend from Longview Drive to Route 83. The FAUS project will build new sidewalks, smooth out the Depot Street curve, and resurface Depot Street.

Changes in state regulations permit villages to recover 70 percent of their share of costs for engineering services. Formerly, local governments had to pay 100 percent of the costs.

The supplemental resolution passed by the trustees makes cost recovery possible.

This street project is tentatively scheduled to be finished by November, 1999.

The effort to smooth the curve on Depot Street has been a longtime village plan. "When Mayor Toft was in is when we started talking about this," Wells told trustees. Raymond P. Toft was Antioch Mayor from May, 1965 to May, 1973 and from May, 1981 to May,

Preliminary PUD plans approved

After more than 18 months of consideration, village officials voted unanimously on Monday, April 19 to approve an ordinance for the preliminary plan of the Deercrest Planned Unit Development. Approval makes it possible for the developer to prepare final plans for the site. Final plans are based on agreements between the village and developer.

The Deercrest development is on 232 acres of land owned by Otto Sprenger on the north side of Route 173 at the north end of Savage Road. There will be a total of 495 dwelling units in the Deercrest PUD.

Although Marvin Oldenburger voted in favor of the resolution, he reiterated his belief that the issue of fencing between the proposed development and neighbors affected by Deercrest are not subject to village mediation or responsibility.

Village officials also voted in favor of an ordinance to authorize execution of an annexation agreement and of an ordinance to annex Landmark Pointe Planned Unit Development. Landmark Point is south of Route 173 on the east side of Route 59. In addition, trustees approved an ordinance accepting the preliminary plan for Landmark Point.

Trustee Wayne Foresta did not vote in favor of the Landmark Point resolutions. "I believe this project is not positive for the village," he said.

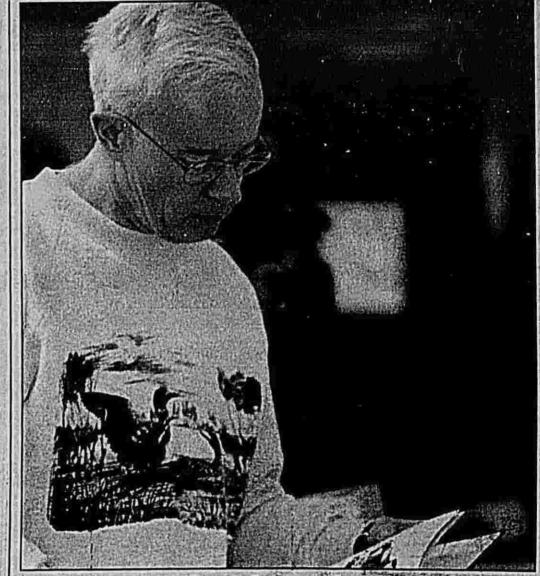

Metra support

Antioch Village Trustees adopted a resolution Monday, May 17 to express support for funding the Metra North Central service double tracking project in the federal government fiscal year 2000 budget.

"We need to show our support, and one way we can do that is to pass this resolution," said Mayor Marilyn Shineflug.

The resolution is based on a text recommended by the Illinois Municipal Conference.

The resolution urges the Federal Transit Administration to reconsider its evaluation criteria for New Start Projects. Such a reevaluation may permit better leveraging of the value of projects such as double tracking.

Lake County marine patrol unit helps to keep Lake County's waterways safe he water is a place to have fun. Every year, thousands of people, from families, to young single people to senior citizens, take their boats out on the Chain O' Lakes for a weekend of recreation and relaxation.

But the obvious attraction of water recreation masks an all too unfortunate truth-boating can be dangerous for people who are reckless or do not take the proper precautions.

Fortunately, the Lake County

Sheriff's Department marine unit is there to help ensure the waterways of Lake County are kept as safe as possible.

The task of the marine unit is daunting. The unit has just two fulltime marine unit officers on staff, Lt. Bruce Scottberg and Sgt. Rodney Brown, and 43 part-time deputies during the boating season which begins in May and extends until mid-October. Those marine deputies have to cover the whole Chain O' Lakes region, which is one of the busiest inland waterways in the United States.

"I know for a fact that over 28,000 boaters use the Chain of Lakes (every season). The Fox Chain is only about 6,000 to 8,000 acres so it's very congested in the summertime," said Scottberg, commander of the Lake County Sheriff's marine

The jurisdiction of the marine patrol unit actually extends beyond the Chain of Lakes to include Lake Michigan. The sheriff's department. has two marine patrols on Lake Michigan in the Waukegan Harbor, covering an area that extends from the Cook County line northward up to the Wisconsin border.

While the task of the marine unit can often seem overwhelming, the mission is clear: to enforce state, local and county ordinances, as well as Coast Guard regulations, and to promote boating safety, according to Sheriff Gary Del Re.

One of the most important priorities to keeping the waterways safe is by removing intoxicated boaters, he said.

"I guess the main priority, not only for Sheriff Del Re and myself personally, is the job we're doing to promote boating safety," said Scottherg. "I was extremely proud of the 54 OUI (Operating Under the Influence) arrests in 1998. That's one of our most important functions because we removed 54 potential killers from the waterway. That has to be the greatest personal satisfaction."

Legal intoxication for persons operating a watercraft is the same as the driver of a car: .08. Those who are convicted face fines and loss of boating privileges.

But all the hard work of the marine patrols is not always enough to prevent a tragedy. Last year, two people were killed in a boating collision on Nippersink Lake in September 1998. The driver of one of the boats, Eugene Farrug, had been drinking.

In addition to the OUI arrests, the marine unit last year logged more than 10,500 hours of service and made more than 1,200 safety boardings, issuing more than 800 citations for violations of various state and local laws. The patrols also ensure boats are equipped with the required life safety equipment, such as an adequate number of life preservers and fire extinguishers.

LIFE: Boaters, water-sport enthusiasts kept in check

A new state law that is rigorously enforced requires that all children under the age of 13 must be wearing a life jacket when the boat is underway.

"A vast majority of boaters comply with that law, but we do write a number of violations to boaters who were either unaware of the law, or decided to ignore it. We do enforce it aggressively because it is a safety factor," said Scottberg.

Not all accidents on the water involve boats. In fact, an increasing number of accidents involve personal watercraft, often known as waverunners.

Scottberg said some users of personal watercraft often engage in the dangerous practice of wake jumping. This involves the personal watercraft following a boat and jumping over the wake, often dangerously close to the rear of the boat.

In an effort to ensure more responsible use of personal watercraft, this year, for the first time, the marine unit will employ two waverunners of its own to catch reckless users.

Del Re said the marine patrol deputies have gone through an extensive training program on the use of the personal watercraft, which he believes will give the unit increased visibility on the water.

"I think they'll prove very valuable and a useful tool to the marine unit. It's kind of a pilot project," he said.

The use of personal watercraft will also allow the marine patrol to get into much shallower bodies of water, and to patrol the waterways in a less conspicuous way than patrol boats, according to Scottberg.

Many boaters might think marine deputies aren't actual police officers. That assumption is wrong. Marine patrol deputies have full arrest powers and are often full-time police officers in other jurisdictions who work for the unit on their days off. In addition to on the water violations, they often respond to criminal complaints, including bar fights that sometimes break out along the Chain O' Lakes.

"Often times our patrols are able to respond faster to a bar fight than the land patrol can get there," he said.

One of the most gratifying personal satisfactions for Scottberg is the dedication the marine patrol deputies have to their jobs. "They don't make a lot of money, but morale is high and they enjoy what they do. It's a pleasure to command them."

As part of their ongoing effort to promote safe boating, the Lake County marine patrol unit works in tandem with other agencies, including the Fox Waterway Agency, the U.S. Coast Guard, the Department of Natural Resources and the McHenry County Sheriff's Department's marine patrol unit.

Linda Ryckman, public affairs officer for the Fox Waterway Agency, said both the Lake and McHenry County patrols are "our partners on the waterway," enforcing agency ordinances, such as "no wake zones," a debris ordinance, and a night-time ordinance against excessive speed. Marine patrols will also enforce the agency's new ordinance designed to reduce excessive noise on the waterways.

"They put teeth in our ordinances. We could pass all the ordinances we wanted but without their support these ordinances would be worthless. They help ensure are waterways are safe for recreational users," said Ryckman

"We want everyone to come out and enjoy the waterways but we want it to be a safe experience."

I get by with a little help from my friends

everal weeks ago, I subtly (??) tricked readers into taking a moment out of their busy day to write or e-mail me with their thoughts. I accomplished this by utilizing a time-honored psychological method of persuasion that is known to experienced mothers the world over:

GUILT.

Thank goodness it works better on you folks than it does on my kids! Not only did you respond, but you actually tripled the previous record of 12 pieces of mail. Yes, that's right – for those of you who aren't good at math, I received 360 pieces of mail, give or take a zero.

I enjoyed reading each and every one, and discovered that the folks who read this column are quite a diverse bunch: senior citizens, single moms, men, women, readers with a well-developed wit, etc.

There was only one who made me glad they don't print my home address. Here are some outtakes from their letters:

Enough already! Such a cry baby. ...I subscribe to Lakeland for two reasons: you are reason #2. Numero uno? I have a bird. Kathleen

(Note to Kathleen: I hear someone put a contract out on that bird.)

Congratulations on publishing 182,000 words (more or less) and unlike certain columnists I could mention, minimal use of the word "booger". Larry (Note to Larry: True, and I've been thinking that I could increase my income in direct proportion to the number of times I can use the word "booger" in a column. Of course, maybe I need to get my own

I love it when you write about the dog, cat, children, the young, and the older ones at college. Tony

(Note to Tony: Could you be more specific?)

It is one of the reasons we subscribe instead of to the other local paper. Elaine

(Note to myself: Ask for a raise.)

I feel compelled to respond to your pathetic request for recognition on your special day....when you first began your column, excuse me for saying so, but you were painful to read. (Don't worry: a huge complement is coming up soon)...

Robert
(Note to Robert: So, you're saying...What?...I'm too OLD to be a concubine for some prominent Republican?)

Here is proof that I love your column: I'm taking time to write you during my toddler's naptime. Diana

(Note to Diana: As a mother, I know that's quite a compliment. Thank you.)

And thank you to everyone else who took the time to write, including Becky "the big fan from Texas", Dee, Mike, Layton, Jan, David, Dorothy, Vera, Laurel, Melanie, Mrs. Smith, Betty, Gina, Carmen, Carolyn, Ruth, Margaret, "Fboot", "AuditFiveO", Colleen, Carol, Chester, Dorothy and a few "anonymous".

HOROSCOPE

Arles – March 21/April 20
You have a lot on your mind this week, Aries. Don't keep everything bottled up inside. It only will get you upset. Talk to a loved one or close friend. He or she can help you sort things out. You'll feel much better if you open up to someone. Taurus plays an important role late in the week.

Taurus – April 21/May 21
Keep quiet when a good friend is telling you about his or her plans for the future. This person's mind is made up; nothing you can say will change that. All that you'll accomplish by voicing your opinion is getting him or her angry with you. Even though you mean well, don't get involved.

Gemini – May 22/June 21
You're on the go this week, Gemini. There's a lot to do, and there really isn't anyone whom you can ask for help. Just stay focused on what you have to do, and you're sure to accomplish everything. Things will calm down by the end of the week. A loved one asks for your opinion about a family matter. Be honest.

Cancer – June 22/July 22 Keep your sense of humor about you this week, because you're going to need it. A discouraging thing happens in your professional life. While it isn't anything serious, it can upset you. Try to look at the bright side of things. This will make it a lot easier to get to Friday.

Leo – July 23/August 23
This is your week to roar, Leo.
You are in control, and just about everyone is interested in what you have to say. Take advantage of the attention, and voice your opinions about a professional situation. Your superiors will work to improve things. That special someone has a surprise for you. Enjoyl

Virgo – Aug 24/Sept 22
Don't be too hard on yourself when you make a mistake in your personal life. Your error doesn't hurt anyone, and it easily is remedied. So, don't beat yourself up about it. Just correct the problem, and move on. A good friend wants to talk with you. Listen to what he or she has to say. It is sure to make your life a little easier.

Libra – Sept 23/Oct 23
Don't let a minor argument with a friend get you upset, Everyone has disagreements. Just try to relax, and think about what he or she is saying. You'll realize that it's not very different from your point of view. The person whom you've been seeing wants to get serious. Say yes.

Scorpio – Oct 24/Nov 22

Don't let your ego cloud your judgment this week, Scorpio. You can't just think about yourself when making an important decision. Consider how everyone involved will be affected by your choice. A loved one needs help with a family matter. Do whatever you can for him or her. Capricorn plays a key role.

Sagittarius – Nov 23/Dec 21
There is a lot to do this week, so don't get distracted. Focus on the tasks at hand, not what those around you are doing. It's the only way to get things done. Those close to you will be impressed with your efforts. A good friend offers to help you with a personal matter. Say yes, because you can't do this on your own.

Capricorn – Dec 22/Jan 20
Don't be shy when meeting an intriguing person early in the week.
Just be yourself, and you're sure to make a good impression. He or she can offer you a potentially lucrative deal. A loved one needs your advice about a personal matter. Even though you want to help, don't get involved. He or she won't like what you have to say.

Aquarius – Jan 21/Feb 18
Don't be skeptical of an acquaintance who offers to help you with a problem. He or she is sincere.
Accept the assistance, because you're really going to need it. That special someone has a surprise for you late in the week. Enjoy it!

Pisces – Feb 19/March 20
Even though you've had a fallingout with a friend, show compassion when this person gets into serious trouble this week. Do what you can for him or her. Your efforts will be appreciated. Virgo plays a key role on Friday.

Harvard Milk Days set for June 4-6

The face of agriculture has changed tremendously since 1942 when Milk Day was established. The farm tours offers people a chance to see the latest in farm technology on McHenry County's largest dairy farm. The Kooistra farm is home to over 500 dairy animals. Joel and Linnea Kooistra and staff milk 250 Holstein cows twice daily in a modern facility, selling approximately 2000 gallons of milk daily.

Visitors will be able to have a complete tour of a dairy barn, calf facilities, and watch the milking process for 250 cows. They will learn about the care and feeding of dairy cattle, the technology used on today's dairy farms and processing of milk from the cow to the store. The farm tour is free. After the half-hour visitors may purchase breakfast consisting of scrambled eggs, sausage, waffle, orange juice, milk or coffee. Breakfast is $6 and must be paid in advance. Reservations are limited to 800 people and can be made for the tour and breakfast by calling the Milk Day Office at (815)943-4614.

Harvard Milk Days is June 4-6. More information about the event can be obtained online at www.milkdays.com. Registration, maps, and a complete schedule of events is available. Harvard Milk Days email address is milkdays@avenew.com, the telephone number is

In addition, the quartet "Unchained Melody" comprised entirely of chorus members won the Most Improved Quartet Award, for scoring the most points over last year's score. Quartet members Janet Graf (Huntley, IL.), Eileen Basener (Lake In The Hills, IL.), Elly Palmer and Cheryl Warnecke (Crystal Lake, IL) have been together for 3 years and sang in their second competition.

The Chain O'Lakes chorus is currently making preparations for a music summer camp that will be open to the public. Classes will include voice production, music theory, choreography and costuming, and will be taught by the director and members of the chorus. The music camp will give current chorus members and women interested in learning about barbershop valuable information about the craft. The classes will be held at the Crystal Lake Salvation Army Building. Camp dates will soon be con-

'Morning Star' casts a glorious sheen

"Morning Star," a rarely performed play by Sylvia Regan, is beautifully directed by Frank Galati at Chicago's Steppenwolf Theatre. Set in new York;s lower East Side in 1910 and spanning through 1931, this play about a Jewish immigrant family asks the question: "Does everything happen for the best?"

FOR YOUR ENTERTAINMENT

Becky Felderman, a widow, shares a tidy but well-kept apartment with three daughters and a son, plus a border.

They have come to America for its widely heralded opportunities: their lives are shaped by events out of their control, from the Triangle Shirtwaist fire to World War I to the Great Depression.

Despite the ups and downs that test Becky's mettle, she's a genuine survivor. That's driven home late in the second act when one of the characters shares the words her mother used to say about "the morning star always shines brighter after a dark night."

Each of Regan's characters is clearly and memorably drawn. Melanie Moore infuses an unbridled enthusiasm and innocent naiveté to the part of Fanny, while Jenny Bacon is perfect as Sadie, a self-absorbed schemer. Yasen Peyankov shows charm and gentility as the boarder who has his eye on the lady of the house.

Other superb performances come from the two who play husbands of the Felderman girls: David New as the easygoing, enthusiastic songwriter and Paul Adelstein as the mild mannered, dedicated teacher. Even Rodrick Peeples, in a minor role as family friend, captivates with his singleminded political orientation.

But it's the lead, Shannon Cochran, as the optimistic Becky Felderman, who serves as the glue that holds this fine drama together. When she's handed the ring of a daughter killed in the fire one day before her wedding, the grief is palpable. But we feel her joy, too, as she studies for her citizenship papers or celebrates her son's bar mitz-

> Santo Loquasto has created a super set: the "lived-in" apartment in the foreground is just right, as is the window-and-brick exterior of the neighboring tenements in the background.

"Morning Star" will run through June 20. Ticket information is available at (312)335-1650.—By Tom Witom

'Dream' a nice diversion from Star Wars

y now, we've all got "Episode I" hype on the brain. But, there is an outlet for those of you who are sick of hearing about lightsabers and Anakin and Darth Maul. That outlet is Shakespeare, which hit theaters last week in the form of "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

The bard is resurrected once again, on the heels of the wild success of "Shakespeare in Love," and this time it is the enchanting story of fairies and love which occupies the the bard's original vision, or at least that's how it appears to me. There are not ridiculous, out of place special effects, the costumes are accurate and the sets are relatively simple by design. But that's not to say that the sets are sparse. They are filled with intricate detail—whether it be the winding plants and vines of the forest, or the lush wedding spread laid out for the noble guests. The overall look and feel of the film is that of an elaborate play, and the big-name cast does not overwhelm the relatively simple intentions of the play. Sure, the cast is made up of some of the hottest actors in Hollywood today, with the likes Calista Flockhart and Rupert Everett, and a couple established superstars, like Kevin Kline and Michelle Pfeiffer. Surprisingly, the individuals do not try to change the characters or enhance them with their own interpretations of the lines, but rather, the actors all seem to play each part as originally intended. When I read this play in school, I (like most of which the actors can accurately act out the careful prose of the play. And the actors are superb.

Kline is greatly entertaining as Nick Bottom, and Flockhart is very good as the emotional Helena. Everett and Pfeiffer are well cast as the king and queen of the fairles, and each does a solid, understated acting job as mythical characters. Another well-cast role was that of Puck, played pleasantly by Stanley

In virtually every aspect, "A Midsummer Night's Dream" is a very classically accurate film. It is a bigtime movie based on a small-time play written by the greatest playwright ever. And it is all done very well.

My only criticism, and this may be more directed at myself than at the film, is that I had a difficult time being drawn into the story. For the first 20 minutes or so, I was so geared toward deciphering the old language, that I found myself missing the basic plotlines.

It just took some time to get used to the language, a criticism that many have of Shakespeare's ancient script. But all in all, the film is very good. I give "A Midsummer Night's Dream" four out of five popcom

Aras befriends 'man's best friend'

It seems to be "reigning" the best looking cats and . board certified groomer, who take approximately an dogs at Aras Canine, located at 1418 N. Cedar Lake Road in Round Lake Beach, where the finest in pet grooming and training is the order of every day.

Owner Joanne Heidenberger and her exceptionally well-trained and professional staff believe that all cats and dogs are born equal when it comes to the price of looking and acting really good. The charge for all pet services is the same no matter what size or breed, whether tending to the needs of a tiny Chihuahua or a majestic St. Bernard. The rule that pets and their owners should not be penalized because of size prevails at Aras.

The staff includes a certified master groomer and a hour to transform your pet into a well-groomed pet to be proud of.

All dogs can be groomed for $20, cats for $25 and ferrets for $30. Pet grooming is complete with bath, hair clip if desired or needed, flea dip, nail trim, and ears cleaned. Other services are available.

The staff works with state-of-the-art equipment, including hydraulic and electric tables. Appointments are appreciated but walk-ins are most welcome. Pets can be dropped off, or an attractive and comfortable waiting lounge is available if pet owners prefer to wait for the short hour a grooming session takes.

The cost of basic puppy behavior correction and obedience training, as well as guardian dog training, ranges from $75 to $315, depending on the type of training. Dog and owner are welcome to come together and go home trained.

Not only are Aras' staff members cognizant of the latest methods in pet grooming and behavior training, while using the newest equipment, but appointments can be made in an up-to-date pre-millennium fashion by calling up Aras' On Line appointment book at http://members.xoom.com/appointment.

Aras is open seven days a week, from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Call (847) 546-1922 for more information.

Business tips from advertising headlines

It was a long flight. My work was done and I was headed home. Too tired to work or think of an idea for a column, I leafed through a few business magazines. A headline grabbed my attention and I reached for my pen. I just discovered invigorating inspiration.

Business wisdom is where you find it. I discovered the commonsensical points in this column at 36,000 feet in advertising headlines.

Headline Truths

•Be unforgettable. (Boxlight Projectors) Here is the headline that got this column jump-started. "Be unforgettable" is sound business advice. To keep your customers and build your business, you'll need to make a strong, lasting impression with your quality, your service and your personal touch.

•Romeo and Cleopatra? Starsky and Gretel? Laurel and Juliet? Good partners make the difference. (Kemper Funds) Yes, it's true, carefully selected partners can help your business. Choose your bank, tax advisor, legal advisor and mentors carefully. The right choices will help ensure your long-term success.

• Your competitors are ready for E-Commerce - are you? (IBM) Well, are you?

•Would your company be interested in saving 38 cents? (Microsoft) There are two sides to every penny: how to earn it and how to spend it wisely. The answer to this questioning headline is "yes, we are interested in saving 38 cents, $38 or $38,000." Cicero said, "Men do not realize how great an income thrift is."

Never underestimate the importance of people. (Hewitt) I've never seen a small business that grew into a big business without good people. You do become what you hire. So, hire the best you can find, and remember just how important they are to you.

•Even the Lone Ranger never rode alone. (Ernst and Young) Yes, even the Lone Ranger knew the value of working with good people. There is little in business that will lower your stress level any faster than having a sidekick you can depend Built like a battleship, runs like a speedboat, priced like a dinghy. (Digital) This is what every good piece of advertising should do in its headline - create value. High quality, great performance at a small price. Try that in your next ad.

• He wants to talk about soybean futures and I want to talk about my future. (National Life of Vermont) Here's a great marketing lesson: Listen to your customers. Find out what is on their minds, then help them secure their futures, solve their problems and satisfy their wants. Remember, all customers are more concerned about their own future than they are about yours.

Want success? Get information.
 (Business Start-up Online) This advice would certainly eliminate many early business failures. Every business owner gets paid for two things:
 1) What you know, and 2) What you do. There is a definite tie between how much you know and your success. You will always need good information to make good decisions.
 Whatever it takes. (Centre) Now

Green Oaks gets 100,000 sq. ft. warehouse

Work has started on the new 99,040 square foot Stout Development Spec II warehouse/distribution facility located on a 5.89 acre site at the southwest corner of Lambs Lane and Bradley Road in Green Oaks.

Robert J. Guarnaccio, president of Stout Development, has negotiated 70% of the building to one tenant and has processed several proposals for the balance of the building.

According to Alan Zocher, Senior project manager of Kiferbaum Construction Corporation, the new precast facility is divisible from 24,760 square feet to 99,040 square feet and will feature 24' clear ceiling height, a Class III Commodity fire sprinkle system, four drive-in doors, eight exterior docks and 185-car parking. Completion is scheduled for summer 1999.

Brian Diehl, superintendent, will oversee the on-site construction for Kiferbaum Construction Corporation. Architectural services are being provided by Dobrin & Associates, LTD. C.L. Botthof, Jr. of Hiffman Schaffer Associates, Inc. is the exclusive marketing agent for the project.

Making the move to homeownership rent vs buy

For most people, owning a home makes more sense than renting one. On average, the typical renter pays $811 per month, or close to $10,000 a year, according to a recent survey by M/PF Research, Inc. In today's market, this individual could possibly afford a $125,000 home, using a 30-year fixed loan at 7%.

"Renters ready to make the commitment to homeownership should visit a local mortgage lender to discuss the opportunities available, as well as their current financial picture," said Rob Speight, Branch Manager, for the Grayslake area of Northwest Mortgage, Inc. "The reality is that with the variety of downpayment assistance programs available, and low interest rates, homeownership is a tangible goal for most people."

A recent survey by Fannie Mae showed six out of ten renters feel that becoming a homeowner is a high priority. However, many think they lack the required downpayment and are unable to find an appealing and affordable home.

Speight said that a 20% down-payment is no longer needed to purchase a home. Several lenders, now offer programs that require as little as 3% down. These programs are flexible enough to allow downpayment costs to be obtained from a variety of sources, including one's own funds, gifts from family members or grant money. In addition, assistance is available for potential homeowners whose credit is less than perfect and want to purchase a home.

"It;s encouraging that in today's market so many renters are eager to make the move to homeownership," said Speight. "Depending on an individual's status, owning a home can be a very good financial move."

Abbott announces promotions

Effective June 1, Gary L. Flynn, 49, will be vice president and controller of Abbott Laboratories, succeeding Theodore A. Olson, 60, who is retiring in July after 23 years of service.

Also effective June 1, Greg W. Linder, 42, Lake Villa was elected vice president and treasurer, exchanging positions with Thomas C. Freyman, 44, who was named vice president and controller in the hospitals products division. This rotation is intended to build on and take advantage of the significant financial strengths of both individuals.

Miles D. White, chief executive officer, commenting on Olson's retirement said, "Ted has been an outstanding contributor to Abbott for 23 years. Ted's leadership and unique combination of valued business judgment and financial expertise have been key to the company's exceptional reputation for financial soundness and superior financial management."

Flynn joined Abbott in 1971 as a financial accountant in the Ross products division. He has held several management positions in the Ross products and diagnostics divisions, including most recently, divisional vice president and controller, Ross products division. He holds a bachelor's degree in business administration from Franklin University,

Columbus, Ohio.

Freyman joined Abbott in 1979 as a senior financial analyst in the international division. He has held several al management positions in the international and corporate finance divisions, including most recently, vice president and treasurer. He holds as bachelor's degree in accounting from the University of Illinois and a master's degree in management from Northwestern University's Kellogg Graduate School of Management.

Linder joined Abbott in 1982 as a cost analyst in corporate finance. He has held several management positions in hospital products, diagnostics, pharmaceutical products and corporate finance. He holds a bachelor's degree in finance from the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Sunglasses should be functional and fashionable

Finding a pair of non-prescription sunglasses that provides good protection from the sun and comfortable vision is difficult today.

Part of the problem, says the American Optometric Association, is the lack of uniform labeling with regard to ultraviolet (UV) protection. Plus, studies have found many of the labels are misleading.

Another difficulty for consumers is judging lens quality. Price is no gauge. Some inexpensive sunglasses have quality lenses, while some higher priced ones may have poor quality lenses in expensive frames.

According to the association, consumers need sunglass lenses that:

•Block 99-100 percent of UV-A and UV-B, which can cause cataracts; retinal problems, such as macular degeneration, benign growths on the eye's surface, cancer of the eyelids and skin around the eyes, and photokeratitis, sometimes called snow blindness, which is a temporary but painful sunburn of the eye's surface;

-screen out 75 to 90 percent of visible light; and are perfectly matched in color and absorption and free of distortion and imperfection.

The best lens color choices are gray, which does not modify color, green or brown. Wrap-around frames provide added UV protection for bright environments. Wearing a wide-brimmed hat or cap in addition to sunglasses also provide more UV protection and can help cut brightness and glare.

Most people don't need a lot of sunglass extras. Polarizing lenses, which effectively combat reflected glare, can provide added comfort and better vision for those who do a lot of driving or boating. Some people like the convenience of photochromic lenses, which darken or lighten with the amount of light. Mirror coatings are primarily for wear under intense glare from snow

The association offers these sunglass buying tips:

•Don't be misled by UV labels. Ask your optometrist's advise or buy sunglasses where equipment is available to check the lenses' UV protection capabilities.

•Check lenses to be sure the tint is uniform, not darker in one area than another. With gradient lenses, be sure the tint lightens gradually from top to bottom.

•Hold the glasses at arm's length. Look through them at a straight line in the distance, such as the edge of a door. Slowly move the lens across the line. If the straight edge distorts, sways, curves or moves, then lens has imperfections.

•To be sure the lenses block enough light, try them on in front of a mirror. If you can see your eyes easily through the lenses, they probably aren't dark enough.

Finch University of Health Sciences/ The Chicago Medical School ushers in a new administration

Richard A. Hawkins, Ph.D., has been appointed President of the University. Dr. Hawkins joined the University in 1988 as Professor and Chairman of the Department of Physiology and Biophysics. He assumed the position of Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs and Chief Academic Officer in 1993 and was named Provost in 1998.

After receiving a Ph.D. in physiology from Harvard University, Dr. Hawkins went on to become a research fellow at Oxford University. He has held research positions at the National Institute for Mental Health and the Food and Drug Administration of the U.S. Department of Health Education and Welfare, and served on the faculty of New York University and Pennsylvania State University.

Residents of Lake Bluff, Dr. Hawkins and his wife have two sons. Richard is a Chicago Medical School student; Paul received his M.D./Ph.D. from the same school in 1996.

Nancy W. Garn, M.S., has been promoted to Executive Vice President of the University. For over 25 years, Garn has developed the academic support systems that make up the Learning Resource Center and Boxer University Library.

Since becoming Director of the library in 1974, she assumed the roles of Director of the Learning Resource Center, Assistant Dean for Learning Resources, and Senior Vice President for Learning Resources and Public Relations. Her most recent success involves the orchestration of the Learning Resource Center's 35,000 square foot addition.

Garn received her B.S. from Syracuse University and her M.S. from Case Western Reserve University. She and her husband, Dr. Norman Garn, reside in Northbrook.

Daniel J. Morissette, MB.A., C.P.A., has rejoined the University as Chief Financial Officer. Affiliated with the University since 1988, Morissette became controller in 1992.

Grief support and counseling for children offered

Provena Hospice Bereavement Services is offering a six-week support and counseling session for children and teenagers who have experienced the death of someone close to them. Beginning June 2, meetings will be held from 6:30 to 8 p.m. every Wednesday evening through July 7. There is no charge for the sessions.

The sessions will be conducted by Elizabeth Tsang, Provena Hospice chaplain, and her support team. There will be three group meetings at the same time each Wednesday: one for children ages 5-11, another for teens ages 12-18, and a third for adults who would like support or would like to learn how to help children deal with their grief. All meetings will be held at Provena Saint Therese Medical Center, 2615 Washington St., Waukegan.

To register for the summer session, call Provena Hospice at 360-2220 by May 24. The six-week session will be offered three times a year; the next session will begin in October.

Provena Hospice provides care and emotional and spiritual support to terminally ill patients and their families. Provena Hospice, along with Provena Saint Therese Medical Center, was recently awarded accreditation with commendation from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations (JCAHO). This is the highest level of accreditation given by JCAHO.

An education program for care givers of persons with Alzheimer's disease

The Sheridan Health Care Center will hold an Alzheimer's Disease: Diagnosis, Treatment and Management Seminar on Sunday, June 13, 2-4 p.m. at the Illinois State Beach Resort.

Alzheimer's disease is a progressive disease of the brain that effects memory, thinking and reasoning. The incidence increases with age with almost half of those over age 85 affected. The length of the illness varies from 3 to 20 years. During that time, people with Alzheimer's disease experience emotional distress, behavioral changes, and become unable to care for themselves. Eighty percent of care to these individuals is provided by family members at home. Providing that care may be difficult because of the accompanying agitated behaviors. These behaviors can include angry, verbally abusive language, social inappropriateness, refusal to cooperate with needed care, irritability, wandering, sleep disturbances, repetitious mannerisms, phonic reactions, and combativeness. Agitated behaviors increase the burden of caregiving. This program is designed to help family caregivers to understand and manage agitated behaviors.

Sharon Roberts, nurse and gerontologist, will discuss agitated behaviors and ways to minimize them by changing the environment and caregiving approaches. Medications that can be helpful in managing agitated behaviors, their use, dosages, and possible side effects will be addressed by Kate Swift, pharmacist. A panel of professionals from Sheridan Health Care Center will tell of their experiences caring for residents with Alzheimer's disease and answer questions from the audience.

The participants will have the opportunity to visit and talk with well-respected, caring staff trained in Alzheimer's care and related dementia areas including questions concerning finding affordable, quality Alzheimer care in your community, psychological and functional assessment, behavioral and environmental interventions, pharmacological treatment, information about legal and ethical concerns and support for the family.

To register to attend this free education program or for more information, please call Ross Zeller at Sheridan Health Care Center at 746-8435.

Osteoporosis — early intervention is the best prevention for all ages

Vertebrae and hip fractures are not a common concern in the under-50 set, but what women do in their teens and after can do a great deal to prevent these types of injuries later in life.

Physical activity during the prepubescent years is crucial for maximizing bone mass," states Pekka Kannus, M.D., Ph.D. of the UKK Institute in Tampere, Finland. Kannus' research of physical activity among Finnish women reveals that the earlier young women begin exercising, the stronger their bones will be as they age. Osteoporosis is a bone-thinning disease that typically strikes the elderly and often results in painful fractures of the spine, hip, wrist and ankle. Although awareness of the disease has grown, it's not clear yet whether Americans, especially young women, are taking the appropriate measures to prevent

Following are some steps you can take to strengthen your bones and reduce your risk:

 Make sure that you are consuming enough calcium in your diet. Two-thirds of your bone is composed of calcium. The recommended daily allowances for calcium are:

800 milligrams for individuals 18 to 50 years of age,

1,600 milligrams for pregnant or lactating 19 years old or younger;

1,200 milligrams for pregnant or lactating women over age 19;

1,000 to 1,500 milligrams for women over 50, and

1,000 to 1,500 for men and women over 60.

Calcium-rich foods include eggs, lowfat yogurt and dairy products, and green, leafy vegetables. Vitamin D, supplied by the sun, also helps metabolize calcium.

- Avoid high-sodium foods.
Scientists have determined that increased amounts of sodium prompt increased amounts of calcium to be lost in the urine, which leaves your bones with a decreased supply.

- Participate regularly in weight-bearing exercise activities. Bones respond to increased stress by becoming stronger and denser. Exercise also prevents fractures indirectly by strengthening the muscles that protect the bones from injury and by increasing balance, agility and coordination, which can reduce the occurrence of dangerous falls.

Resistance (weight) training is an excellent way to introduce weight-bearing exercise into your workout program.

Avoiding another Columbine (part two) ince the Columbine killings, people have been racking their brains to try and figure out why these things can happen in our society. I have heard all of it blamed from the availability of guns to Marilyn Manson. While I do believe that those things can have an influence, I believe that there is something far more insidious and frightening going on here.

We are ignoring the most important aspect of all. This aspect would be the inner constitution of our kids. What goes into the make up of our kids' personalities? What creates a situation in which so few of them seem to really understand the value of life and that it's o.k. if they are not always the priority in everyone's eyes?

There are always going to be influences on our kids. If we make it our job and duty as parents and teachers to build a strong inner core of good beliefs and thought for oneself as well as others, we may have a chance.

If we don't start doing this now, our society may not be able to continue for long. You may think that you are already doing that, however, you'd be amazed at the things that can create a child that could kill. In my column last week and this, I'll be sharing my thoughts on how to build that inner strength, knowledge and good character as well as some other things:

1.) Punishment is healthy and necessary. Our society has really run amuck. We do not punish in our homes, our schools or our prisons. Our laws are marshmallow-like and very easy to get out of. Is it a shock that violence is such a integral part of society? The most basic of principle goes like this: If you punish a behavior consistently and appropriately, the behavior will go away. If you reward a behavior consistently, the behavior will become stronger.

Make sure you get involved with what your children are doing and punish them for inappropriate behavior consistently. Be appropriate, don't feel bad and do this for the sake of your child!

2.) Talk to your kids. Be involved with them. Don't just dismiss behavior as a stage or something that "kids just do." Get involved every step of the way and let them know your values about it. Praise them when it is appropriate and judge them when it isn't. They NEED to hear that from you. They deserve to hear that from you.

PARENT'S PLACE

3.) "Zombie Syndrome," I want to tell you a story that I believe has a lot of bearing on the Columbine situation and is a big part of why things like this happen.

Several years back, I had a family come to me with their 13 year old daughter. She was a good kid with a bit of depression. She started High School and was out at lunch one day (why a Freshman has open lunch is beyond me anyway,) and was ambushed by a group of rotten girls (yes rotten.) One of them proceeded to break this girl's nose. Well, of course the parents were beside themselves. Upon further investigation, we found out that the savage girl was supposed to be a in a self-contained behavior disorder classroom within the school. She had a long history of violence. So, that left us to wonder why she was out at lunch. Guess what the school's response was? They claimed that it was not their problem because it was off of school grounds.

They ended up suing the school for failing to control a girl who was known to be dangerous. The scary thing is that neither the parents or the school administrators could bring themselves to think rationally about this until it was shoved in their face. I don't know what it takes to wake people up to the realization that if you allow a loose cannon to be unsupervised and if you CHOOSE TO IGNORE WARNING SIGNS, you are asking for the problem to occur. This is not rocket science.

Compare this to Kip Kinkle's father. Kip Kinkle is the boy that shot kids at school in Springfield. On T.V., I heard last night that his father and mother found plans for making a bomb on Kip's computer. Their solution to that was the most intelligent one I think I have heard yet. They bought him a rifle. I about fell out of my chair when I heard that one! You see, in their warped minds, they figured that if he had such a fascination with weapons, the rifle shot at a shooting range would dispel some of that.

Don't listen to the talking heads out there who suggest that if you get in the way it will cause the kids to want to do the things more. My parents routinely got in the way in a very intense, appropriate form and I am a better person for it. I thank God that they did it FOR me.! Hate signs in school should not be allowed, period. Threats should always be taken seriously. "At risk" students should not be left to their own decisions.

We've done the, "rights of the few outweigh the rights of the many." It hasn't worked. It's a miserable failure. We need to support and protect the "rule-following," "law-abiding," people who are just trying to go about their normal life and live it.

4.) Rehabilitation is a myth.
One last word...I am sick to death of hearing about the prospect of rehabilitation. I am a Psychologist by trade, and I am sickened and embarrassed that many in my field seem to go completely against the basic rules of Psychology.

This is the rule that says that the power conditioning that most criminals have by the time they commit their crime does not go away. It only becomes stronger each time they kill and get away with it. Our prisons certainly don't punish. Most of the crime is committed by repeat offenders who never had any remorse to begin with. The boys who shot other kids at other schools will be out within 4-6 years with a clean record. What makes us believe that these kids will suddenly develop the understanding that killing is wrong. They have no remorse now, where will it come from later?

This column is for entertainment purposes only. Information in this column cannot and should not replace proper Psychological treatment. Dr. Sherri Singer is a Licensed Clinical Psychologist, childhood behavior specialist and author of the book, ""Why kids misbehave! What every parent needs to know to keep their kids on the right track!" For an appointment, please call (847) 604-3483.

Caring for the Quality of Your Life SM

All eyes are on the computer screen

When first introduced, mot peole who sat in front of computer creens for long periods of time were ither programmers or systems anaysts. Today, adults and children inreasingly use computers for work, ducation and recreation. Whether vorking at a computer for one hour or eight, users may often find themelves with eye discomfort, fatigue, plurred vision and headaches.

According to Dr. James Doherty, an optometrist in Lake County since 1982, although there is no evidence that using a computer causes vision problems, it can cause Computer Vision Syndrome. The American Optometric Association notes that CVS is a cathcall term for the eyestrain symptoms that can affect a computer user's productivity and leave them feeling tired at the end of the day. In addition to eye problems, back, neck or shoulder pain may also occur caused by leaning forward or tilting the head back to see the screen.

Dr. Doherty advises that anyone experiencing these symptoms should have an eye exam to rule out disease and to prescribe glasses or contact lenses to correct the problem, if necessary. When it comes to glasses for computer use, lenses designed specifically for that purpose are gaining popularity. They are noline bifocals with a wide field for midrange viewing on the top and a portion for close-up work at the bottom. If glasses don't appeal to you, the brand new bifocal soft contact lens may be the answer. Now, both near and distance vision correction is achieved with less adapting time than glasses.

To make computer use easier on

•Reduce the amount of lighting in the room to match the computer •Minimize glare on the screen with a glare reduction filter (look for one with the American Optometric Association Seal of Acceptance), repositioning the screen or by using drapes or blinds on the windows.

•Adjust your work area and your computer for comfort. Most people prefer, a work surface height of about 26" for computer use. Place the screen 16" to 30" from your eyes. The top of the screen should be slightly below horizontal eye level. Tilt the top of the screen away from you at a 10 to 20 degreee angle.

Clean the screen frequently.
 Use an adjustable chair with good back support.

Thanks for the memories and all the fun

ell, we all knew this time would come eventually, and so it has. This, for better or for worse, is my final issue of Lakeland Newspapers. And of course, my final column.

In my two-plus years here as Lakeland's Sports Editor, you the reader have seen a lot of changes. When redesigned the sports section, along with the rest of the paper on May 9, 1997, we introduced a number of new features-some stuck, some did not.

I brought the Athletes of the Week, a statistics box, and, of course, this column, affectionately known as "The Clipboard."

I also brought in features such as "Sidelines," which was similar to our "Neighbors" columns which run in the front of each paper. I also experimented with a popular feature called "In the Trenches," in which the sports department would debate a national sports issue with a local person involved in the sports scene.

Not all of these things were as well received as "The Clipboard," but Lakeland's readers have seen some concerted efforts to improve and refine our sports coverage.

In my tenure at Lakeland, I have seen the sports reporter duties go from long-time employee Steve Peterson, to Fox Lake reporter Lee Filas, to newcomer John Phelps.

Each individual had his own style and favorite sports, but through that change one thing has remained constant—quality. Our coverage has continued to improve up until this day, and with John Phelps taking over the Sports Editor position after my departure, I fully expect him to take Lakeland to the next level.

o all the coaches, athletic directors and involved parents I have had the pleasure working with, I thank you. You are the people which really make our coverage possible.

The amazing thing about Lake County and the local sports scene is that everyone seems to be involved.

Local sports are not about being the best at an event or winning the most trophies, although that is very nice. It is about thriving on competition; setting goals and achieving them; pushing yourself to give your best effort. And that is facilitated by the close-knit support staff which seems to surround every local

And, of course, it is about the athletes. For the most part, these athletes are kids. But these kids work as hard as they can, day in and day out, striving to reach those goals which lie just out of their reach.

Many achieve those goals, and some fall just short. But everyone has fun, and that's why we play sports. The camaraderie, the competition, the fun.

Sports are an integral part of our culture, and Lake County is rich with it's own sports history.

My successor knows that, and he will do his best to build off of what I have started. I only hope that he experiences the kind of enthusiasm and cooperation I have received.

Aikus qualifies for state

By JOHN PHELPS Staff Reporter

In a night filled with tears and emotions, feeling like the end of a season, or perhaps career is about to come to a close, many individuals stepped up at the Grayslake girls track sectional last Friday.

One girl whose high school career continued was senior Cindy Aikus, qualifying for this weekend state meet in Charleston.

The ever-steady Aikus claimed the title in the long jump (16-8 3/4), beating out Warren's Kristen Pace.

"I'm really excited," said Aikus. "My goal was to get 17 feet, but I'm very satisfied, especially since I qualified."

Aikus seemed to have somewhat of a upper hand heading into the long jump.

Kristen (Pace) came to me and said, I don't know if I can beat you," said Aikus. "It's funny because it was the other way around last year-I was going to her thinking I couldn't beat her."

Things have a way of evening out, don't they!

"She's been awesome all year," said head coach Kathy Kelly. "She's consistently been doing four events, and scores in every meet."

While Aikus was the lone Sequoit to qualify for state, several other Antioch individuals might not have but still earned the satisfaction of achieving personal bests.

Becky Clarke set new PB's in both the 110 (:15.9) and 300 hurdles (:51.4), and it was a day of PB's for several Sequoit relay teams.

The 3,200 relay, consisting of Lauren Steinberg, Holly Clarke, Maureen Moran, and Sara Brzezinski, also knocked off 20 seconds (10:24) in setting a PB, while the 800 relay team of Jocelyn

Gates, Emily Sopczak, Jessica Misic, and Heather McDonald posted

The 800 medley relay team of Aikus, McDonald, Becky Clarke, and Meredith Nelson added to the list of PB's with a time of 1:56.

Nelson also added a PB in the open 400, clocking in at 1:09.9, while Jill Cardis-Gates posted a PB of 111-0 in the discus.

"Not bad for a freshman," noted

And finally, Michelle Watters, Brzezinski, Julie Sytsma, and Nelson posted a PB time of 4:22.7 in the 1,600 relay.

"We're in a very tough conference and sectional," said Kelly, "We wish there were more state qualifiers, but all-in-all, we did a lot better than I expected. Most of the team really stepped it up today, and that's al! you can ask for."

Lady Sequoits peaking on time

By JOHN PHELPS Staff Reporter

The record is not indicative, but the Lady Sequoits varsity softball team is peaking at the right

"We've been playing really sound softball lately," said head coach Steve Wapon. "The last four games have especially been a delight. We went 1-3 but against some quality opponents."

Speaking of which; Antioch, which stands at 8-20 on the season, split a doubleheader last weekend with Libertyville.

Pitcher Kaeleen O'Connell went the distance, scattering seven hits and striking out four in a 4-3 loss in the opener.

Offensively, Kristen Curran was 2 for 3 with an RBI, Abby Thomas 2 for 3 with one runs scored, and Megs Kotlarz 1 for 2.

First baseman Thomas recorded 10 putouts, catcher Laura Weber four putouts, and Melissa Bock two putouts and two assists. Libertyville scored two runs in the bottom of the seventh to come away with the win.

The Sequoits came back to win the nightcap, 2-1, in dramatic fashion.

Thomas was stellar on the mound, facing only 24 batters in going the distance. She fired a threehitter with four strikeouts.

Antioch trailed 1-0 heading into the sixth inning when Kotlarz lead off with a solo homer, tying the game at Antioch opens regional action next Monday at home next Monday against north Chicago. The first pitch will be thrown out at 4 p.m., with the winner earning the right to play top-seeded Stevenson Thursday at 4 p.m.

Timely hits spark Rams baseball

By JOHN PHELPS Staff Reporter

The Grayslake varsity baseball team made it two victories in the last three games following a 10-9, nine-inning thriller over visiting Crystal Lake Central Tuesday night.

Timely hitting was key for the Rams, who improved to 7-13, 4-7

Trailing 9-8 in the bottom of the seventh, Eric Brauer smacked a solo homer over the left field fence to tie the game, 9-9.

Then, in the bottom of the ninth, Willie Wright singled to lead off the inning and eventually scored the gamewinning run on a single by junior Ryan Feeney.

"On the whole, we've been plagued by inconsistency," said head coach Sean Ferrell. "We had seven errors today, so we were fortunate in overcoming that and getting the win."

Wright finished 3 for 5 and Grayslake also got a big day from Brian Grewe, who went 4 for 5 with two doubles and five RBIs and Mike Beverley went 2 for 5.

"Beverley has provided us with tremendous leadership," said Ferrell. "He started the season off slowly (of- to pace the Rams, now 6-9, 3-6. fensively) but has really found his swing as of late. I think he's closing in with any consistency," noted Ferrell on the :300 mark at the plate."

And let's not forget about Alex Frank, the Rams power-hitter and one of the overall mainstays.

Frank belted his eighth roundtripper of the season, a two-run shot in the first inning. Frank, who currently leads the team with 23 RBIs, went 2 for 3 on the day.

"He went through a stretch where he was hitting the ball well, but right at people," said Ferrell. "But he got it going yesterday. He's just a complete player. He has so much raw talent and he's one of the best bunters I've coached."

Ferrell is referring to Frank's second hit of the afternoon, a bunt-single in the fourth inning.

Last Saturday, Beverley sparked the Rams with again, timely hitting as Grayslake posted a 5-2 victory over Lake Zurich in Fox Valley action.

Beverley, who went 2 for 4, roped an RBI single in the bottom of the fourth inning as Grayslake went up 3- a 2 and never looked back.

Solid pitching from starter Jeff Norwick, a sophomore, and reliever Alex frank sealed the win.

Norwick gave up just two hits while walking two and fanning four in 4 1/2 innings of work before Frank came in for the rest of the way in to earn the save.

Matt Ellison was 2 for 3 and Eric Brauer and Keith Hall smacked triples 17

AYB to host tournament in July

North Boone High School and Junior High, along with the Belvidere YMCA and the Belvidere Community Center have been selected to host the American Youth Basketball District Tournament from July 10 through July 18. Each team will be given the option of playing six games for $300 entry fee, or choose the number of games they would like to play for $50 per game.
District Director Brian Evans expects over 40 teams to participate this year from various cities around the Midwest. Last year teams from Galesburg, Moline, Dubuque, and Rockford, as well as Grand Rapids, Michigan, Kenosha, Wis. and Madison, Wis. participated in the two weekend event. "We are looking forward to a big turnout this year and are excited about the competition we'll be seeing," Evans stated. "We also need referees to work that weekend." Evans said that the refs will be paid between $13 and $15 per game with the opportunity to work multiple games. Games will be approximately one hour in length.

If you are interested in entering a team or officiating in the tournament, contact Brian Evans at 223-8031 or send a self-addressed stamped envelope to The Tour, 2003 Hardwood Path, Lake Villa, IL 60046.

Lindenhurst Blaze wins two

The Lindenhurst Boys U-9 travel team played a double-header and came away with two victories. Their regular season game was against the Downers Grove Gold team and the Blaze won 4-0. The second game was a make-up game versus the Carol Stream Panthers and the Blaze again triumphed by the score of 5-1. These two opponents did not have any victories this season and the Blaze dominated both. In the first game, the Blaze outshot the Gold by the total of 40 to 1. The second game was much the same as the Blaze had 34 shots to their opponent's one. In the last three games, the Blaze have outshot their opponents 100 to 5.

In the opening game against Downers Grove, the scoring started just four minutes into the game when Connor O'Keefe scored on a nice cross from Colin O'Malley. Then, with two minutes left in the quarter, Kyle Sytsma scored an unassisted goal off a defender's leg. The second quarter was scoreless al-though the Blaze outshot their opponents 13 to 1. Halfway through the third quarter, the Blaze were awarded a direct kick on a hand ball and O'Malley converted it. Kurt Houghton finished off the scoring for the Blaze with an unassisted goal with 1:30 left in the quarter. The fourth quarter saw the Blaze attempt 13 shots at goal but they failed to dent the net.

In the second game, the Blaze found the Carol Stream Panthers' goalie hard to beat as they could only manage one unassisted goal by Kurt Houghton for the entire first half. The Panthers responded with their only shot on goal for the game deflecting into the net and the half ended 1-1. The Blaze had 19 shots at goal while the Panthers had one. The second half, though, found the Blaze scoring four goals to secure the victory. First, Kurt Houghton got his second goal of the game on a penalty kick. This was followed by a goal by Colin O'Malley with the assist going to Kyle Sytsma. Early in the fourth quarter, Tommy Sewart scored an unassisted goal to make it 4-1 and Houghton then got his "hat trick" on an assist from Brian Mooney to close out the scoring.

Again the speed and defense of Brian Mooney, Brian Hook Andrew Stein, Matt Laine, Alex Kelley and Ethan Hahn were the reason the Blaze dominated. Goalies Chris Church, Tommy Sewart, Stein, Kelley, Sytsma and Laine were rarely tested on this day.

Dynamo beats Red Devils 2-0

It was a beautiful sunny Sunday afternoon, and so was the Dynamo's fourth victory. The LaGrange Red Devils were the latest victim of the Dynamo Blue team losing 2-0. Dynamo did everything they had to do to win this game, a team victory. Tough defense from guys like John Werchek, Matthew Reimer, and

ACHS Youth Track meet

Antioch Community High School will again be a hosting a youth track and field series. The meet is open to children ages prekindergarten through students currently in seventh grade. The meets Danny Pender. Tough goalkeeping from Andy Schultz, Brett McKenzie and Reimer. Great team play by putting on a passing clinic and a team victory it was.

Scott Newman and Steven Linder played a solid all around game. Andy Schultz set up the first goal of the game on a corner kick, dumped the ball in front of the net where Sean Hertz capitalized and touched the ball through the up rights to take a 1-0 lead. Marek Smit set up goal number two by making a nice lead pass through the seam of the Red Devils defense. Aaron Nichols picked up the pass, got the keeper to commit to the left side of the net and pushed the ball past the goal line for the second and final goal. The

LCB looks for new home

Lake County Baseball is looking for a new home. With the eventual closing of Fort Sheridan, not only the Army and the Navy will be looking for a new base of operation, but so will Lake County Baseball (LCB). While the final stages of the base closings may still be a long way off, there is even a threat of losing the fields this year. Lake County Baseball is trying to prepare for the situation by looking for buildings and ball fields, or even some vacant land to relocate to. If anyone knows a place that could accommodate the indoor facility and the not for profit baseball program, contact LCB at 945-9606.

However, until that time Lake County Baseball is making good use of the fields in running tournaments at its home fields at Fort Sheridan. This year the organization will be hosting three tournaments at Fort Sheridan. The LCB Tournament to be held on June 11, 12, and 13 still has room for 12-year- old teams. July 9, 10, and 11 will find Lake County hosting a tournament for 11-year-old teams and then the Red, White and Blue Tournament for 10-year-old teams will take place on July 23, 24 and 25. If you are interested in participating in any of these tournaments to be held at Fort Sheridan, contact LCB for more information.

Lake County Baseball is also sponsoring three tournaments at the Fielder's Choice Sports Complex in Racine, Wis. These tournaments are for 11, 12, 13 and 14-year-old teams. The Father's Day Tournament, held June 18, 19 and 20, has room for one more 12-year-old team. While the Summerfest Tournament (July 16, 17) and 18) and the August Heat Tournament (July 30, 31 and Aug. 1) still have openings at all age levels. If you would like more information about these great tournaments, contact LCB at 945-9606.

The 12-year-old Chiefs played a practice double-header at Downers Grove. In a close game the Chiefs lost the first game 8-7 in extra innings. Losing pitcher was Michael Beaucaire of Deerfield. In the second contest, the Chiefs failed to take advantage of opportunities of men on base and lost 8-4.

U-12 Magic girls 4-0 on season

The Lindenhurst Magic girls 12 and under fastpitch softball team got off to a fast start in the 1999 season. Their record is 4-0 with two wins over the Crystal Lake Tidal Wave and two wins over the Vernon Hills Stingers. In the first game of the season, a 27-2 victory over Crystal Lake, Emily Perrenot led the team with a stellar pitching performance. Emily struck out 12 of the 19 batters she faced. Kim Schmit and Lanaya Gutowski led the hitting attack with 4 hits each and Maggie Onergan and Val Nootbaar added 3 hits each.

In the second game of the sea-son, a 16-6 victory over the Vernon Hills Stingers, Lanaya Gutowski earned the victory with Emily Perrenot picking up the save. Lanaya pitched 5 innings, striking out 8 batters. Jaclyn Kulakowski led the team in hitting with 3 base hits and Jackie Schmidt added a triple. Maggie Lonergan scored 4 times, with Kim Schmidt and Megan Bulow each scoring 3 times.

The third game of the season was a 6-5 victory over Vernon Hills. Emily Perrenot recorded the win with 12 strike outs and only 3 walks in a complete game victory. Jackie Schmit and Emily Perrenot each had 2 hits with Jaclyn Kulakowski adding an RBI triple. Jenni Habib reached base twice and scored a critical run in the last inning by stealing 3 bases including home.

The Magic played host to Crystal Lake, earning a 20-10 victory. Lanaya Gutowski struck out seven batters in 4 innings of work. Kenny Senn-Codotte picked up the save with two strike outs in one inning pitched. Kenny also reached base in each of her four plate appearances, scoring three times. Val Nootbaar tripled and scored three times.

NAYS national tournament set for Peoria

National American Youth Sports announced that their annual national tournament in Peoria July 14 to 18 at 10 different gymnasium sites still has several remaining openings.

This tournament is open to teams in the following 10 brackets: fifth-sixth grade boys; fifth-sixth grade girls; seventh grade boys; seventh grade girls; eight grade boys; eighth grade girls; ninth-10th grade boys; ninth-10th grade girls; 11th-12th grade boys; 11th-12th grade girls. Grade level is based on the grade a player is enrolled in for the 1998-1999 school year.

The entry fee is $525, and guarantees each team a minimum of nine games.

The entry deadline is May 29. For additional information or an entry form, contact NAYS toll-free at 1 (888) 629-2275.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Village of Antioch's public water supply failed to analyze for complete phosphates (missing total phosphate and polyphosphate) as required for water quality sampling during the July 1, 1998 through December 31, 1998 monitoring period. This is a violation of the Illinois Pollution Control Board Rules and Regulations, and this Notice is being issued for informational purposes only. NO hazard to the public water supply exists. Should any hazard exist, immediate notification would be made.

Water Quality Samples are used to evaluate the effectiveness of corrosion control treatment, to prevent household plumbing form leaching lead and/or copper into the water supply. All other tests performed during this same sampling period indicate that the corrosion control process is working well.

As a means of resolving this violation, the Village of Antioch's public water supply will be collecting and monitoring all required samples during the January 1, 1999 through June 30, 1999 sampling period. In the meantime, if you have any questions, please feel free to call Michael Ruxton, Superintendent of Sewer & Water, Village of Antioch at (847) 395-1881.

Plymouth Prowler for 1999 more show, more go t was only a few short years ago that the very idea of mass producing a factory hot rod seemed too radical a concept for any major automaker to undertake. Since then, however, Chrysler Corporation's outrageously styled and technologically advanced Plymouth Prowler has been cruising into the hearts and garages of automotive enthusiasts around the country.

Being on the leading edge of automotive design and technology, the Plymouth Prowler enters its second model year of production with major changes in both the "show" and "go" departments, underscoring Chrysler's commitment to making this automotive icon even more exciting.

Production began in early 1998 for 1999 model Prowlers (There is no 1998 model Prowler.) All 1999 Prowlers are powered by an all-new, high-output 3.5liter V-6 aluminum engine that dramatically improves performance. The new eve-popping shade of Prowler Yellow has been added in addition to Prowler Purple for 1999, Two new colors - Prowler Red and Prowler Black - are planned for production later in the 1999 model year.

Prowler's new 3.5-liter engine boosts output by 18 percent with a robust 253 horsepower, 39 more horsepower than the 1997 model. Torque is increased by 15 percent to 255 lb.-ft., making a 34 lb.-ft. increase over 1997.

This all-new aluminum engine also powers the Chrysler 300M and Chrysler LHS sedans for 1999. But applying the engine to the Prowler was more than just a simple "bolt in" process. The engine had to be substantially recalibrated to

Your Way to the Lake Michigan Waterfront

Almost done

Construction workers put the finishing touches on the exterior of the new Anthony Pontiac in Gurnee which opens June 1.

1999 Eclipse Spyder announces technical highlights

Mitsubishi Motors' Eclipse Spyder -- the first U.S.-assembled production convertible by a Japanese manufacturer -- was specifically designed as a production convertible, unlike many sport coupes that have undergone alterations to modify them into convertibles. Both the Eclipse Spyder GS and turbocharged Spyder GS-T feature platform and body reinforcements to enhance chassis-rigidity and control noise, vibration and harshness (NVH).

The Eclipse Spyder is assembled in Normal, Illinois, with its Eclipse coupe cousins, receiving special treatment all along the assembly line. The already rigid Eclipse coupe platform gains approximately 121 pounds in structural enhancements: the header panel is strengthened and fitted with top-latch receivers, the A-pillars are reinforced and stronger front/rear floor sections and quarter panels are used to add to the platform's integrity.

In addition, a crossbrace has been added behind the rear seat to provide support for the rear deck assembly and to provide further torsional rigidity for the body.

Engines

Eclipse Spyder GS is powered by a 2.4-liter 4-cylinder engine, an engine used in no other Eclipse model. This large displacement, high torque 4-cylinder generates 141-horsepower at 5,500 rpm and a quick-responding 148 lbs.-ft. of torque at 3,000 rpm.

Eclipse Spyder GS-T is powered by a 210-horsepower 2.0-liter turbocharged and intercooled 4-cylinder engine also found in Eclipse GS-T and GSX sports coupes.

Both engines feature Dual Engine Stabilizers, counter-rotating shafts inside the engine block that offset the vibrations typical of large displacement 4-cylinder engines. In addition, the 2.4-liter and turbocharged 2.0-liter engines have cast iron blocks with aluminum cylinder heads for reduced weight and improved cooling, 4-valves-per-cylinder for improved breathing characteristics, electronically controlled sequential fuel injection, and hydraulic valve lash adjusters that eliminate the need for periodic adjustment.

To reduce NVH transferred from the engine to the rest of the vehicle, both Eclipse Spyder models replace two of the coupe's four engine mounts with vibration-absorbing liquid-filled engine mounts. The two remaining engine mounts are of a traditional rubber and a

Transmissions

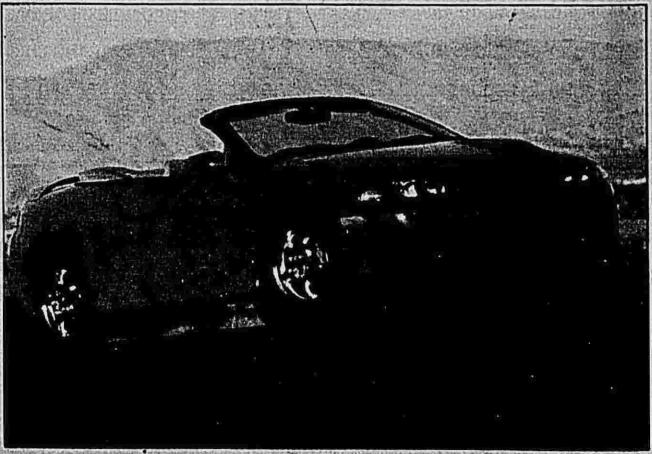

A 5-speed manual gear box is standard for both Eclipse Spyder GS and GS-T with an optional 4-speed automatic with overdrive that features adaptive transmission control and an electronic engine/transmission interactive control system.

Adaptive control ensures that the transmission maintains the appropriate gear when climbing hills, virtually eliminating the sporadic "hunting" between gears that is common in many automatics.

Additionally, the system resists shifting during cornering, and will downship automatically for engine braking when the vehicle is traveling down hills under braking.

For improved heat dissipation and enhanced braking performance during severe conditions such as mountainous driving, Eclipse Spyder models are equipped with power-assisted fully ventilated front disc brakes. Eclipse Spyder GS-T is fitted with solid rear discs, while the GS has rear drums.

A four-wheel Anti-lock Braking System (ABS) is optional on Eclipse Spyder GS-T mod-

Keeping the wheels turning - car care for now and the future

Cars. For some they are a passion, for others, a hobby - some people even give them pet names. But for all of us, they are a part of daily existence. When we have a new (or even a clean) car, all seems right with the world - but when our car stops running, life screeches to

Car care isn't just about keeping your car looking new - it is vital to safety. Although caring for your paint job with good waxes is important, keeping what is on the inside in top condition is even more critical to the safety and life of your vehicle. Knowing how to care for the various parts of your car is not always simple or obvious, and to do a thorough job requires knowing everything from a topnotch mechanic and what oils and plugs to use, to the best tires for your make and model. But as we all know, that information has almost always come attached to fees or pur-

Dependable, free advice about car care does exist, and people are turning to the Internet to find it. Consumers Digest Online is a comprehensive online resource for the critical information needed to understand automobile safety, maintenance and the day-to-day operating of your vehicle. A solid resource, the site is absolutely tested and reliable, providing extensive car care advice backed by a 40-year trusted reputation and including their objective Best Buy recommendations. Making the site even more attractive, the information provided to save you time, money and problems with your car is completely free.

Consumers Digest Online offers broad automotive content about new and used vehicles, car care and even safety issues. Most critical to the daily use and safety of your car, the automobile care and upkeep categories feature a wide range of information. Users on the Web site can research topics including wheel upkeep and best buys in tires, the best products for caring for your car - from cosmetics to oils to spark plugs, archives of car care articles from years past, and even life-expectancy charts for the parts of your car.

If finding a great deal on a car is one of the great joys in life, then a Web site like Consumers Digest Online that can keep your pride and Eighty percent of all child safety seats are improperly installed. To help reduce that number, participating Honda dealerships will demonstrate proper child-seat installation at Child Safety Day on May 22, and provide information on the correct use of booster seats and seatbelts. Injuries resulting from not wearing seatbelts are the leading cause to death in children under the age of 14.

Rosen Honda hosts child safety awareness day on May 22

More than 1 million children are killed or injured each year in preventable traffic, household and recreational accidents. In an effort to reduce this number, Rosen Honda 22 will host Child Safety Awareness Day at its dealership on Saturday, May 22, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Child Safety Awareness Day offers families important advice and hands-on instruction on a variety of issues including, vehicle and traffic safety, sport and recreational injuries and preventing child abductions. Parents also will be advised on methods of monitoring their child's Internet usage and protecting them from a variety of household hazards.

In addition, attendees can learn from demonstrations on the proper installation of child safety seats and the correct use of seatbelts. Literature on child safety in vehicles containing airbags will also be distributed.

In conjunction with Polaroid's Project Kid-Care, free children's "photo passports" will be taken to provide parents with information vital to the recovery of missing children. More than 1 million children run away, are reported missing or are abducted each year. Tips to prevent child abuse and abduction will be distributed by the National Center for missing and exploited children.

Additionally Gurnee community organizations will provide demonstrations and informative talks on child safety issues.

"Honda started Child Safety Awareness Day last year because education and prevention are two of the best ways to keep families safe," said Dick Colliver, executive vice president of American Honda Motor Co., Inc. "The Honda dealer network provides an excellent way for experts to spread child safety tips and advice throughout Gurnee."

Child Safety Awareness Day is part of a national program developed by American Honda in cooperation with Little League Baseball, Polaroid's Project KidCare, the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children and the National Highway Traffic Safety Administrations.

Rosen Honda is located at 7000 W. Grand Ave. in Gurnee. For more information, please call Drew Smith at (847) 249-2500 or Honda's national public relations department at 310-781-4261.

PROWLER: More show, more go meet much more aggressive performance demands, including the development of a quicker throttle cam and returning the intake and exhaust systems. The electronic controls for the engine and transmission were revised, including changes to run on premium-grade fuel for optimum performance;

The new engine, with its lower noise, vibration and harshness characteristics, helps reduce NVH levels throughout the entire car. Improved block stiffness and precision balancing of all rotating parts combine to isolate and reduce unwanted engine noise.

The quality of the Prowler's exhaust note was a very high priority for Prowler; just as it is the most 'one-off' street rods, according to Team Prowler engineers. A significant amount of time was spent tuning the exhaust and intake systems to keep the engine acoustics appealing while meeting applicable regulations. The result was definitely a win/win - better acceleration and an engine sound befitting the Prowler.

Besides more power and a reduction in overall curb weight, the 1999 Plymouth Prowler has increased efficiency and reduced emissions in comparison to the 1997 model. Using aluminum technology and state-of-theart computer engine management, the new 3.5-liter engine reduces hydrocarbon emissions, meeting Tier I federal emission stan-

Beyond the all-new engine and overall power train improvements, the 1999 Prowler also features next-generation air bags that deploy with less force, as well as a key-operated passenger-side air bag disable switch. Interior changes from 1997 include illuminated window switches with 'express-down' on the driver's side, and revised trim appearance for Prowler's 320-watt "boom box" speakers.

Summer road travel: Make life easier at rental car counter

The rental car industry's growth is on the rise at the rate of about 8-10 percent per year. That's because more people are renting cars, and for a variety of reasons. It used to be that airports were the place for a rental car company to be, and that businessmen were the primary customers. Not so anymore, with many families renting cars for a variety of reasons, from using a van to haul the gang to soccer games, to renting a four wheel drive vehicle for a vacation in the mountains.

Summer is the most popular season to rent a vehicle for a family road trip. "Because this is the busiest time of year for us," says Tom McDonnell, owner and CEO of U-Save Auto Rental, "we recommend trying to plan as far ahead as you can. There are ways to make this procedure quick, with no disappointments and problems while you're on the road." Over 400 owners of U-Save Auto Rentals around the world have compiled some tips for those renting vehicles. Their collective comment? "This should be a fun experience with hassle-free procedures."

To make sure it is, before renting a vehicle, consumers need to do some homework to have all their questions answered about driver responsibility, fees, and insurance. Here are some tips from the professionals at U-Save Auto Rental.

1) In choosing your rental vehicle, are you thinking ahead of time? If size is a factor, consider how many people will be riding in the car or how much luggage or parcel space you will need. Keep in mind, a four door car may cost more than a two door, so ask in advance. If special features are important, such as power steering, air conditioning, stereo/cassette player, or sunroof, be sure to ask for a vehicle that includes them, and if there is any additional cost for these features.

2) Pick Up & Delivery? Ask your rental company whether or not employees pick up the vehicle and return it to the rental agency for you, or if that is your responsibility. If that is in fact the rental agency's responsibility, ask if there is an extra charge for that service. Most companies offer the service free of charge, but some will charge more for further traveling to pick up the vehicle.

3) Additional drivers? If someone other than yourself or your spouse is driving the vehicle, always ask if there is an additional driver fee. Be advised that you, as the renter, are responsible for the safe return of the rental car in the same condition as received, except for normal wear and tear. As the renter, you are held responsible for damages which occur while the vehicle is in the custody of an unauthorized driver.

4) Is unlimited mileage always your best deal? These rates tend to be higher and the geographical area in which the vehicle may be driven is still restricted. In order to choose the rate plan which represents your best value, it is helpful to know in advance how many miles you will be driving.

5) Weekend Rates or Not? Also when bargain-hunting, keep in mind that weekly and weekend rates can save you considerable money versus daily prices on a per-day basis.

6) Hidden charges? When renting a vehicle for insurance replacement purposes, be advised that insurance companies normally reimburse the renter by the calendar day. That is, you are expected to pay a full day's rate for any portion of the calendar day. For example, a car rented on a Tuesday at noon, and returned on Wednesday at noon, would be considered a two day rental by the insurance company.

7) Does your personal insurance cover your rental car? Before renting, contact your insurance company to see if your personal auto insurance covers you for the rental. When renting specialty vehicles like passenger vans, minivans, etc., it is wise to purchase the optional Collision Damage Waiver (which protects the renter from the cost of any damage repairs to the rental vehicle in the event of an accident). Many consumers erroneously think their personal auto insurance covers them on any rental vehicle, and that they do not need the added protection, but customers should contact their insurance companies to verify their coverage before renting a vehicle. U-Save Auto Rental currently has more than 450 locations in 46 states, Canada and Amman, Jordan.

Fox Lake Chevy dealer honored as genuine leader

Chevrolet Motor Division has honored Ray Chevrolet of Fox Lake as a 1998 Genuine Leader Dealer, the highest honor that a dealer can achieve from Chevrolet.

"Chevrolet defines a genuine leader as someone who does more than just sell cars and trucks," says Kurt Ritter, Chevrolet marketing manager. "Chevrolet Genuine Leaders demonstrate dependability and quality in every customer interaction to make their customers' experiences with the dealership and the vehicle they buy nothing short of exceptional."

Ray Chevrolet was invited to become a Genuine Leader dealer by meeting stringent objectives for sales, purchase delivery satisfaction and service satisfaction. The dealer-ship had to attain or exceed the Chevrolet-assigned dealer percent to Chevrolet zone sales as of December 31, 1998 based on cumulative sales.

Chevrolet also surveyed the dealership's customers concerning purchase delivery satisfaction and service satisfaction. Ray Chevrolet had to attain or exceed the Chevrolet - assigned delivery and service objectives for percent of customers who indicated they were completely satisfied.

"Ray Chevrolet merits our highest honor," Ritter said.

When asked about the honor, dealership principal Ray Scarpelli Jr. responded, "Having been brought up in the car business, the one impression my Dad make on my brother and I was the importance of taking great care of every one of our customers."

Ray Chevrolet is located on Route 12 in Fox Lake.

Weekend roadside safety check planned

The Illinois State Police and the Lake County Sheriff's Department will conduct a joint roadside safety check in northwestern Lake County over the Memorial Day weekend, according to Capt. Rick Rokusek, District 2 commander.

"Officers working the check will be watchful for drivers who are operating unsafe vehicles, driving with suspended or revoked drivers licenses, and driving under the influence of alcohol or transporting open liquor," said Robusek. "Officers will also enforce any seatbelt and child passenger restraint viola-

Group presents forum on growth

A regional environmental group will be presenting a community forum next week on how uncontrolled growth threatens to change Lake County's unique rural character.

The Illinois Environmental Law and Policy Center (ELPC) will hold the community forum at 7 p.m. Wednesday, May 26 at the Byron Colby Barn at Prairie Crossing, 1561 Jones Point Road.

The drawings also would show the impact the building of new highways, such as the proposed Route 53, would have on urban sprawl.

Show spotlights positive Lake County news

By LESLIE PIOTROWSKI Staff Reporter

It's 7 p.m. on Tuesday night and television viewers across Lake County are tuning into Star Channel 3 for an informative new program. "Lake Effect," produced by TCI of Northeast Illinois, is a half-hour newsmagazine that specializes in local human-interest features about people, places and projects.

"The program focuses on the good things that local communities are doing," said Diane Powers, who co-hosts the program with Sharyn Elman. "The stories are nice and positive, and focus on people making a difference."

Powers gave an example of the format for a typical show. One week, the program featured students at an Antioch school participating in a simulated space trip for Space Day; North Chicago children planting 30 trees on Earth Day; and parents taking their kids to work at Cherry Electric in Waukegan.

Another week, the program featured the discovery of blue prints of Lake Forest's historic Market Square building in a cellar, and the Gurnee Rotary Club's donation of $21,000 to charitable institutions.

Leaf burning ban set for day in 'court'

Hearings held on proposed ban

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI City Editor

Two public hearings will be held over the next month or so to see how people in unincorporated Lake County feel about a proposed leaf burning ban.

Chairman Jim LaBelle said the purpose of the hearings will be to make people aware the County Board is considering a ban or restricting leaf burning and to give them an opportunity to offer their input. The hearings will be held at night in different parts of the county, but the exact times and locations have not yet been determined, he said.

LaBelle expects a final decision

Ordinance aiming to snuff out teen smoking

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI City Editor

Officials are considering a new ordinance designed to snuff out teenage smoking in Lake County.

A coalition of community youth group programs is backing the proposed ordinance aimed at restricting the availability of tobacco products

Noelle Kischer is co-chair of the Executive Council of the Lake County Fighting Back, a partnership of 15 community youth programs aimed at reducing drug, alcohol and tobacco use among teens.

While there are already state laws on the books that prohibit the use and sale of tobacco products by minors, Kischer sald a county ordinance would help eliminate some loopholes in the law. For example, she said state law does not address the issue of possession of tobacco products by minors.

A county ordinance would also prohibit the "free" distribution of tobacco products and limit store sales of cigarettes to behind the counter, according to Kischer. There may also be restrictions on where cigarette vending machines would be located so as not to be accessible to minors, he said.

The proposed ordinance is still being developed and details are being worked out by Lake County Sher-iff Gary Del Re, the State's Attorney Office and the County Board's Health and Human Services Committee. About 25 communities in Lake County already have their own ordinances against teen smoking.

Kischer indicated the county ordinance is "not designed to stop everyone from smoking. It's designed to stop kids who are underage from smoking who may not have the in-formation" about the health risks associated with smoking.

'Most people who try cigarettes and start smoking are under the age of 18," she said.

Drunken boaters face stiffer penalty

Intoxicated boaters who are in-lived in fatal boating accidents may now face stiffer penalties under new legislation sponsored by State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion).

The bill which was sponsored by Geo-Karis in the Senate and State Rep. Andrea Moore (R-Libertyville) in the House expands the definition of reckless homicide to include watercraft, snowmobiles and ATVs.

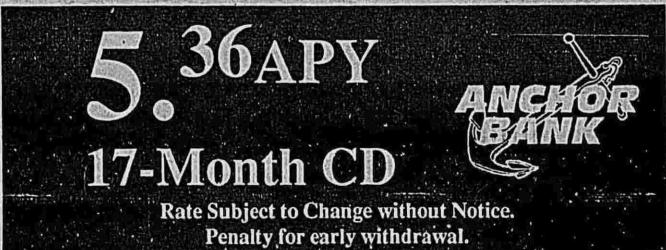

The bill has been approved by the House and Senate and is awaiting Gov. George Ryan's signature.

The legislation increases penalties for people who are legally drunk and are involved in boating, snowmobile or ATV accidents that cause another person's death.

Currently, people convicted of those offenses can face a Class 3 felony and a possible prison term of two to five years in jail. The new law would upgrade the penalty to a Class 2 felony, punishable by up to 14 years Please see SMOKING / C2 in prison.—by John Roszkowski

Fox Waterway Chairman Dam may step down in year 2000

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI City Editor

The Fox Waterway Agency Board may soon have a new man at the Board Chairman William Dam announced at the Waterway Agency meeting of his plans to step down as chairman, and from the board, early next year.

Dam said the year 2000 will add up to eight years of service on the board and it's time for a change.

"I don't plan on dying in the saddle," said Dam. "Next year will be eight years. I believe if you can't get the job done in eight years, you shouldn't have the job in the first place."

Dam said he wants to enjoy more of his free time, including getting out more on the golf course.

"I bought a new set of Cobra Golf clubs last year. I only used them twice," he said.

Dam thinks much has been accomplished by the agency during his tenure and is pleased with the new board majority. He is also confident of the staff leadership qualities of executive director Ingrid Enriquez and field coordinator John Palmieri.

"The election created a board majority of individuals who seem to understand the value of strategic planning, the value of cooperation and assistance with state and federal agencies, and lastly, of hiring qualified staff and allowing them to work without interference," he said.

As his successor, Dam said he will recommend board director Jim McKinley, Jr.

"I believe Dr. Dam has built a solid foundation and I would be honored to move forward with his vision," said McKinley.

McKinley said the agency has made substantial progress in its dredging efforts of the Chain O' Lakes and Fox River. One project he would like to see is the major renovation of the Fox Waterway offices as a tourism center.

SHOW: Television program shows the good side of county five hours," Powers said. "We thought running it just one time was silly. 'Lake Effect' is a combination of human interest stories that ran on 'Lake County Live' the week before."

But while "Lake County Live" covers the gamut from hard news to soft news, "Lake Effect" is strictly upbeat and positive.

"We provide our viewers with important information," said Powers. "We tell them where to recycle hazardous waste materials and warn them that the number of state police are increasing on the tollway."

Powers said she enjoys co-hosting "Lake Effect."

"It puts me in a good mood," she said. "On Mondays, we'll walk on the set and start having a good time because the show focuses on good things and we can interact with each other more."

Elman agreed that there is plenty of interaction. "We have lively discussions as if we were sitting at a table drinking coffee," she said.

The program, which is now in its third month, airs Tuesday at 7 p.m. and then replays Wednesdays and Thursdays at 6 p.m.

Sheriffs' departments will test watercraft decibels

Per the request of the Fox Waterway Agency (FWA) and in anticipation of enforcement of its newest ordinance, Ordinance 99-1 which addresses excessive boat engine noise on the Fox Waterway, the Lake and McHenry County Sheriff's marine units have set several dates for free testing of watercraft engine noise with decibel meters.

The Lake County Sheriff's marine unit will offer decibel testing from noon until 3 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday, June 5 and 6 at Baker's Marine on Bluff Lake just south of Antioch.

The Ordinance, which was approved by the FWA Board on Feb. 25 and amended on April 22, requires that all watercraft operating on the Fox Waterway "be equipped with an adequate muffler or exhaust system in constant operation and properly maintained to prevent any excessive or unusual noise which results in a breach of the peace."

Penalties for violation of the Ordinance are as follows: first violation: minimum $35 fine; second violation: minimum $200 fine and violator must appear in court; and third violation: minimum $500 fine, violator must appear in court and loss of user fee sticker for current boating season for the watercraft in violation

Creation of the Ordinance was prompted by complaints from residents living along the Waterway that some boats were so loud that they created window-rattling, bottle-shaking noise which makes it virtually impossible for many residents to enjoy sitting outside or leaving windows open during the busy summer boating season. Additionally, the McHenry County Sheriff's Department staff has long said that, under Illinois law, decibel testing at many locations on the Fox River is not possible because of space requirement for administering the test (to get an accurate reading, there can be no structures within a 150 foot radius of the watercraft being tested).

The new Ordinance allows Sheriff's deputies to make a subjective determination of what is excessive or unusual watercraft engine noise, much like highway patrols do when issuing tickets for loud mufflers on motor vehicles.

Exceptions to the Ordinance are watercraft competing in a race or regatta sanctioned by a governmental unit, as well as watercraft being operated by a watercraft or marine engine manufacturer and/or marina operator for the purpose of testing or development, as authorized by the appropriate unit of government. Hours for testing or development have been set from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., Monday through Friday (no testing or development is allowed on weekends).

Identity theft should be illegal

Stealing the identity of another person would be a crime in Illinois under legislation sponsored by state Senator Bill Peterson and approved today by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

According to Peterson (R-Long Grove), House Bill 1413 sets penalties ranging from a Class A misdemeanor (under one year) to a Class 1 felony (four to 15 years) for financial identity theft.

"We want to stop criminals from using a person's name, social security number or other identifying information to obtain credit, money, or other goods and services without written permission," said Peterson. "This practice is becoming all too common; and innocent people are experiencing great financial loss because someone pretending to be them has run huge credit card bills or stolen from the savings account. It can ruin an individual's credit history."

Under current law, an offender can be charged with the crimes of theft, forgery, unlawful use of a credit card, deceptive practices, and financial exploitation of an elderly or disabled person. House Bill 1413 would place all financial crimes dealing with stolen identity under a single offense, according to Peterson.

BURNING: Leaf burning ban proposal divides people by the board in July or August.

The County Board as a whole met for the first time to discuss the leaf burning issue at the Division of Transportation in Libertyville, and opinions were mixed.

Board member David Stolman (R-Buffalo Grove) said protecting public health has to be the paramount issue and he supports a ban.

"Clearly, there's a time when health, safety and welfare of residents takes a priority over other things," he said:

Board member Sandy Cole (R-Grayslake), who suffers from asthma, agrees. An emotional Cole recounted seven days she spent in the hospital following an asthma attack that was triggered by smoke from leaf burn-

"I've lived with that. I've seen children taken to the hospital (from asthma attacks caused by leaf burning)," she said.

Board member Judy Martini (R-Antioch) said she sympathizes with people who have respiratory problems because her husband has asthma

But Martini said there are problems associated with an outright ban, notably the cost to homeowners in rural areas of hauling away thousands of leaves.

"I've had an elderly woman tell me that it would kill her if she had to rake all the leaves to the street," she added.

Board member Bonnie Thomson Carter (R-Ingleside) pointed out that many of townships simply do not have the resources to haul away huge numbers of leaves.

Instead of an outright ban, she favors restricting leaf burning to certain times and educating the public on when not to burn.

"We need education and alternatives. The education has not been out there," she said.

The Lake County Administrator's Office made a short presentation on some of the possible alternatives to leaf burning. Some of the options include home composting, bagging leaves and transporting them to a compost facility, or leaf pick-up collection by either a governmental unit or private waste hauler.

Lake County Health Department supports a ban, pointing to a marked increase in the number of hospitalizations due to asthma and respiratory illnesses in the county.

SMOKING: Teen access too easy, informal study determines

Several recent surveys show an increasing number of youth are taking up smoking, including an "incredible number of kids that are 9 years old and younger."

The Lake County Fighting Back Coalition conducted its own survey last fall to gauge alcohol, tobacco and substance use in the county. The survey found that 35 percent of 6th grade students felt tobacco products were easy to get in Lake County. Sixty-five percent of the 8th graders and 84 percent of 11th graders believed tobacco products were easily accessible.

"By making them (cigarettes) less accessible, we hope teen smoking will drop," she said. "And because tobacco is a gateway to other drugs, we believe we will also see a decline in the use of alcohol, marijuana and other illegal drugs."

County Board member Pam Newton (R-Libertyville) said the board unanimously endorsed the efforts to create an ordinance that prevents the possession and use of tobacco by children under the age of

"This is definitely a step in the right direction that sends two clear messages. The first is that smoking is harmful to everyone's health, and the second message is we care very strongly about our youth who are the targets of these cigarette advertising campaigns," she said.

Newton said she would like the county to go even further to prohibit smoking in public places. She said national studies have shown nearly 50,000 people died last year from second-hand smoke.

"I would like the county to look at a ban of cigarettes smoking in public restaurants and public governmental buildings," Newton said. "This would ensure that people who have their children out in public are allowing them to breathe clean air. These second-hand smoke emissions are killing our kids."

Board member John Schulien (R-Libertyville) said he favors the idea of a countywide ban on teen smoking.

"I cannot say 100 percent I would support it until I've seen the ordinance, but the premise behind it I do support," said Schulien, who is also vice-president of the Lake County Board of Health.

However, he is less enthusiastic about banning smoking in restaurants, noting that most restaurants have separate sections for smoking and non-smoking patrons.

"I don't know whether we should dictate something like that that is clearly a matter of choice," he said.

Library looks to dismiss lawsuit

Libertyville—Cook Memorial Library officials are awaiting a ruling regarding the pending lawsuit against the library. Jerry Wiener, a lawyer with the Chicago-based firm of Schain, Firsel, & Burney, Ltd., filed a motion to dismiss the lawsuit on behalf of the library.

A presentation date has yet to be set. Then the lawyers will go before the judge to argue the reasons for dismissal. The judge then decides whether to dismiss the lawsuit or to proceed.

The lawsuit claims financial wrongdoing on the part of the library with regard to auditing procedures.

In the motion for dismissal it claims that the Audit Act does not contain any requirement that the library maintain an account of general fixed assets.

It also states that Cook Memorial has conducted annual audits, and none of the audits has been rejected by the State Comptroller.

Storm destroys 39 trailer homes

Wauconda—Winds of 70 mph and above whipped through town early Monday morning, damaging 116 trailer homes, injuring seven people and causing 2,000 homes and businesses to lose power for most of the day.

Most of the injured received cuts and scraps, despite having 39 trailer homes destroyed, 35 receiving major damage and 42 getting minor to moderate damage, said Assistant Fire Chief William Glade.

The Village has two trailer home parks next to each other on Barrington Road. Winds shifted some of the homes off their foundations, while trees that were snapped or uprooted caused further damage in the parks and elsewhere along the southern edge of town.

Longtime trustee resigns

Fox Lake—A third senior trustee has left the Village Board. John Erdman served 10 years as trustee before announcing his resignation at the board's May 17 meeting.

"I only resign with regret," Erdman said. His resignation leaves Mayor Jim Pappas with the longest board tenure of four years, two as mayor and two as trustee.

Pappas has 60 days to fill the vacancy, and is hoping to bring someone up for a vote of the board within two to four weeks.

Poetry, music join Java on Main

Antioch—Poetry readings and displays of fine art are, coming to Java Gardens, 881 Main Street.

Interested artists and writers are asked to contact Patty Hermes if they wish to read their writing, display their art work, or play their instruments in the coffee shop.

The first poetry readings are scheduled for Friday, June 4 at 7:30 p.m. "We'll have a collection of people to do poetry readings," Hermes said.

"I'm organizing the "Culture Shock of Antioch"— live poetry readings and other verbal expressions of writing," she said. "We're just going to have so much fun with this."

Already Greg Spinner and Marianne Giannis, owners of Java Gardens, are hanging art on the walls among the dried flower arrangements.

For all poetry readings, please call 847-395-4465. For other artistic expressions—paintings, graphics, sculpture, music—people can call Java Gardens, 838-6361.

Former H.S. worker pleads guilty

Mundelein—A former Carmel High School employee pleaded guilty to a felony theft charge after stealing more than $36,000 from the school while employed in the accounts payable department.

Patsy Lange, 52, of Rbund Lake Beach, was employed by the school for eight or nine years, said George Strickland, Lake County assistant state's attorney. From April 1, 1993 until Dec. 31, 1998, Lange stole approximately $36,497 from tuition mon-

Carmel High School officials discovered the theft and reported it to the state's attorney's office and the Mundelein Police Department.

A judgment was entered on May 13, giving Lange probation and public service. In addition, she has to repay the entire $36,497 to Carmel High School. Strickland said she had already paid back $20,000 of that money.

Police sponsor safety fair

Lake VIIIa—Lake Villa Police Officers will sponsor a Community Safety Fair Saturday, May 29 at the Lake Villa Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall.

The fair will include safety programs, information booths, food, and McGruff the Crime Dog.

"There will be a lot of activities for kids," Juvenile Officer Keith Emrikson said. "Last year we had a great turn-out."

The fair will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the VFW Hall on Grand Avenue west of Route 83 at the Wisconsin Central Railroad tracks.

Emrikson said that he anticipated at least 29 different agencies to be present at the fair, an increase over the number last year.

Emrikson encourages children to bring their bicycles. He said that the fair offers free fun for all ages.

Gurnee woman pleads 'not guilty'

Gurnee—A Gurnee resident pleaded "not guilty" after being accused of embezzling nearly $500,000 over a period of eight years from OMNI Youth Services of Buffalo Grove.

Anna Meltzer, 37, of 18249 Old Hickory Court, worked as a bookkeeper for OMNI beginning in 1990. Between July 1991 and October 1998, Meltzer allegedly improperly wrote dozens of checks to herself, said George Strickland, Lake County assistant state's attorney.

Meltzer allegedly pocketed a total of $494,000 through the scheme, Strickland said. She has already paid back approximately $200,000 of that money.

According to Strickland, OMNI completed a thorough audit which uncovered the problem. OMNI officials then approached Meltzer, followed by Buffalo Grove police.

Meltzer was indicted by a grand jury on May 5, and was arraigned on May 13. She pleaded "not guilty" to the felony theft charge.

16-hour relay to fight cancer

Libertyville—On Friday, June 11 people of all ages and abilities will begin walking in a fight against cancer. People will continue to make their way around the track until Saturday morning June 12.

The over-night event is the LMV Relay for Life, which is open to residents throughout Lake County.

The relay, to be held at Libertyville High School, will begin at 6 p.m. on the 11, and end at 10 a.m. the next morning.

The goal of the relay is to have a member of each team on the track at all times during the event.

There will be a tent city set up for the various team members to rest while they are not on the track.

For a team of eight to fifteen people registration is $100 and each team pledges to raise at least $1,000.

For more information regarding sponsorship call the American Cancer Society at 432-0577.

Fire damage to St. Patrick's church

Wadsworth—Newport Township Firefighters, along with 23 other departments from northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin, successfully extinguished a fire that began in the basement kitchen of St. Patrick's Church late Friday, May 14.

It was determined that the fire had spread into the walls, and extended into the upper sanctuary floor on its way to the roof. No one was at the church at the time, and there were no reported injuries.

The Archdiocese of Chicago, who will decide the fate of the old church, had insurance representatives assessing the damage on Saturday. The Newport Township Fire Department has reported estimates as high as $250,000.

Although a larger church was built in 1991 for Sunday mass, the basement of the older structure hosted a multitude of functions including cub scout and AA meetings, weddings, and funeral lunches.

Traveling Vietnam wall displayed

Round Lake—The Traveling Vietnam Wall will be on display at Memorial Park in Round Lake until June 1. It will be guarded 24 hours a day by volunteers.

The wall displays over 58,000 names of men and women who served and died for our country in the Vietnam War from 1961 to 1975. Also included on the wall are the names of prisoners of war, and those who are missing in action. At the site will be books listing alphabetically, every name on the wall.

The wall, which is housed in Waukegan by Lake County Vets, is difficult to obtain. This will be the second year in-arow that Round Lake will display the wall. On Memorial Day, a parade is planned at 2 p.m. starting at the high school, followed by the dedication of the new Memorial Park.

Promoting seat-belt safety

Vernon Hills—Several police departments throughout Lake County are helping to Buckle Up America Week May 24-31, as well as Operation ABC (America Buckles up Children) Mobilization.

The Vernon Hills Police Department is spreading the word to heighten awareness of the importance of seat belt and child safety seat use.

Efforts include not only strict enforcement of these laws, but also continued education.

The police department has also teamed with several Vernon Hills pizza businesses to help promote occupant restraint

Between May 24-31, Vernon Hills police officers will be distributing a pizza coupon to motorists who, when stopped for a traffic violation, are observed operating a vehicle in which seat belts and child safety seats are being used.

Ban plan mars board's cohesion combination of zealotry and cynicism in the red-hot debate on the Lake County Board over a leaf burning ban is threatening to drive a wedge into the ranks of the board majority.

Members of the dominate independent Republican bloc, once in lock-step on environment, open space and growth issues, have divided sharply on proposals to eliminate burning as a means of disposing of leaves.

Rep. Judy Martini (R-Antioch), representing an area where voters vehemently oppose a burning ban, stated flatly, "We've been set up." Along with Reps. Bonnie Thomson Carter (R-Ingleside) and Diana O'Kelly (R-Mundelein), Martini faces political repercussions if a burning ban is imposed for unincorporated areas of the county. Martini, Carter and O'Kelly represent semi-rural areas literally engulfed by leaves in fall when the season changes. In these areas, there is little or no support for a burning ban.

Martini, Carter and O'Kelly are among County Board members who are dismayed that some of their colleagues are out to stampede county government into a burning ban. Acknowledging health problems that reckless leaf burning can impose on people with breathing and asthmatic problems, the trio is urging a go-slow approach to allow all sides to be heard, tempers diffused, reason prevail and provide for education.

That sounds like a reasonable approach to a complicated issue. Give reason a chance.

Waukegan joining economic boom

Taukegan is making notable strides recovering from a more than 30-year struggle to cope with the loss of well-paying factory jobs and the development of new retail centers in the burgeoning urbanization of Lake County. At an annual progress report luncheon last week, Mayor Bill Durkin sketched an impressive five-year schedule for revitalization of Durkin sketched an impressive five-year schedule for revitalization of Genesee St. and the tattered downtown, once the county's retail hub and a center for dining and entertainment. Already in progress are such things as a low-interest facade and commercial building remodeling program sponsored by local banks, construction of multi-unit residential housing, and restoration of the historic Genesee Theater.

Because of time constraints, Mayor Durkin did not elaborate on other significant initiatives like a harbor dredging study, razing of the massive Manville Corp. works on the lakefront, addition of upscale residential neighborhoods through aggressive annexation, proposals to trigger a Lakehurst revival with the multi-university center and local school reform.

Left behind for so long in Lake County's economic boom, Waukegan appears on the verge of catching up as the millennium approaches. That's a good sign and good news for socio-economic balance for the entire county.

Condell network awarded U.S. honors national accrediting bureau has confirmed what countless residents of Lake County have known for years—that Condell Medical Center provides exemplary health care. Recognition came in the form of Accreditation with Commendation from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations (JCAHO).

Accreditation with Commendation also was accorded Condell Home Health Systems. The highest level of accreditation is awarded only a small percentage of hospitals.

Commenting on the recognition for meeting the highest national healthcare standards, board chairman Julius Marks referred to Condell being a "dynamic hospital." Condell is that and much more. Along with its anchor center in Libertyville, the 70-year-old medical institution has become a "next door" neighbor to many communities. Condell acute care centers are operated in Buffalo Grove, Gurnee, Round Lake Beach and Vernon Hills. Condell medical buildings are located in Buffalo Grove, Grayslake, Gurnee, Lake Villa, Libertyville, Lincolnshire, Mundelein, Round Lake Beach and Vernon Hills.

Congratulations to the entire team of healthcare professionals who made the national recognition possible.

Class of '99 member faces inaugural test

f newly elected village trustee
Ed Sullivan is typical, the Class of '99 now getting used to life as public officials will do just fine.

Sullivan exemplifies the forthright, no-nonsense, down-toearth candidates voters seemed to prefer in the spring election. Call the 99ers a new breed. They'll serve into the new millennium with style and distinction. Some of them, most notably in Gurnee and Round Lake Beach, already are changing the face of local government.

Combating a nasty whispering campaign that arose during the campaign about not paying fire district taxes, Sullivan still won a seat on the Mundelein council going away.

What about those charges of not paying fire district taxes? "Absolutely true," exclaimed Sullivan with disarming candor. A veterinarian by profession, Sullivan explained that he owns property on the southwest corner of Rte. 176 and Midlothian Rd. that has become a "no man's land" as far as fire districts are concerned.

"I'd like to annex to either Mundelein or the Countryside Fire Dist., but so far I haven't been successful," remarked Sullivan, who also operates a cut-your-own Christmas tree farm between Antioch and Lake Villa.

The handful of acres is an island of unincorporated property surrounded by Mundelein. The village won't annex without a formal development plan. Countryside is hamstrung because of a prohibition about leap-frogging across Mundelein territory. Fire departments from both districts offer protection on a paid-on-call basis, Sullivan reported. He's locked in a classic stand-off.

Part of the corner is the site of a former gasoline station which raises environmental problems. Sullivan, who is a graduate of Libertyville High School and the University of Illinois, wonders if his election will help or hurt chances of sorting out the knotty question.

Complicating the issue is the fact that his namesake son is assessor of Fremont Township. The elder Sullivan says he can take knocks, but critics ought not in-

New meaning

Talking to voters, Grayslake
Mayor Pat Carey says the new T word is Transportation, as in clogged roadways. "On everyone's mind these days," remarks Carey.
Sounds like a lot of motorists are getting used to the call for more
Taxes, the legendary T word, morphing into transportation needs.

What's name worth?

A generous person with a gift of $200,000 can get a lighted football stadium named in their honor. That's a deal being offered by Carmel High School as plans unfold for rehabilitating the more than 30-year-old facility seating 2,300 spectators.

Head Football Coach Andy Bitto, who doubles as athletic director, said the county-wide school located in Mundelein has allocated approximately $91,000 for the project. The rest will have to be raised from donations. Besides being home to the football Corsairs, the stadium used to be headquarters for the Lake County Rifles, a semi-pro football team of bygone days.

Work and play

Talk about combining business with pleasure. Members of the Lake County Bar Assn. held a civil law workshop Thursday before teeing off at Steeplechase Golf Club.

Among the speakers were Thomas M. Campe Jr., Waukegan, a governor of the state bar, and James J. DeSanto, past president of the Lake County Bar. Following the afternoon on the course, arguments were received whether players were better lawyers than golfers.

Lunch is served

PADS (Public Action to Deliver Shelter) has closed overnight shelters around the county for summer, but Connection Resources Services is providing lunches for the homeless. Executive Director May Reddick says an average of 40 persons receive a sack lunch weekdays at the PADS+ office at North Chicago VA Hospital. Lunches are donated by religious groups, businesses, clubs and volunteers. Shelters will reopen Oct. 1. Always in need, according to Reddick, are such things as new underwear, deodorants, disposal razors, fast food certificates, bath towels and blankets. Donors can contact Marilyn Hlinak or Lynn Tracy at 847-689-

Garrett upstaging GOP at every turn

State Rep. Susan Garrett
(D-Lake Forest) is on a roll.
And the problem for Republican strategists is that she knows it.

Seizing on a weak and vascilating Lake County GOP delegation to Springfield, the North Shore freshman has adopted a bold and brash game plan to grab hold of every county initiative and set the agenda for action.

Highway improvements, funding for the multi-university. Big stuff. Garrett's speaking out and grabbing headlines. Getting police to write speeding tickets on Route 41. Fixing potholes in North Chicago and Waukegan. Not so big stuff. It's all the same to Garrett, 49.

Employing League of Worhen's Voter energy for policy issues and Cook County precinct captain savvy at the grassroots, even as a first termer Garrett has become the darling of House Majority. Leader Mike Madigan, who calls the Democratic shots in the General Assembly. Madigan loves Garrett because she's twisting the tail of the GOP elephants.

Scoffing in mock surprise that critics tie her to Madigan, Garrett demurly emphasizes her independence, taking a page (or maybe several chapters) from the playbook of State Rep. Lauren-Beth Gash (D-Highland Park). But as GOP loyalists wearily point out, the Democratic newcomer knows exactly what she's doing.

Much to Republican chagrin, Garrett's 59th District—parts of Libertyville, Deerfield and Waukegan, and all of North Chicago, Lake Bluff and Lake Forest—has taken on the characteristics of a swing district, where an attractive, aggressive Democratic candidate can go toe-to-toe with anything the opposition has to offer.

As recently as two years ago, the 59th was represented by an attractive, aggressive Republican who could go toe-to-toe with anyone the opposition had to offer. Fortunately for Garrett, that state representative for the 59th became GOP Lt.Gov. Corinne Wood.

Route 53 backer

Despite mounting opposition to Route 53, County Board member Bob Grever (R-Kildeer) hangs on doggedly in support of the controversial billion dollar plus tollway proposal. Good politics for Grever, long-time Ela Township political powerhouse. Route 53 doesn't impact on Grever's Lake Zurich constitutients and he can continue to pull the chain of voters in Long Grove, nemesis of long standing.

Seeking golfers

Ken Cabay is the man of the hour in the Lake County Republican party. Cabay has the job of rounding up players for the annual GOP golf outing Wednesday, July 7, at Midlane Country Club, Wadsworth. He can supply tee times by calling 540-6678.

Picnic time

Although attendance has been dwindling in recent years, Lake County Republicans have scheduled their annual family picnic for Sunday, Aug. 22, at Lakewood Forest Preserve, Wauconda. The theme is "fun in the sun" with a minimum of politicking and speech making.

Princess in town

It's not every day that an honest-to-gosh princess comes calling, so it's understandable that the Lake Forest official family still is agog over the visit of Princess Irene of Greece. She was in Lake County to receive a Doctor of Humane Letters degree from Lake Forest College.

Two views

Lake County's two congressmen typify the split in Congress over war in Kosovo. U.S. Rep. Phil Crane (R-8th) is backing the administration bombing and U.S. Rep. John Porter (R-10th) is opposed.

Sarazen 'fades away' at the age of 97

ast Saturday, as I returned home from my fifth round of golf of the week, my 86year-old neighbor smiled and said, "Way to go! If you want to live a long life, play a lot of golf."

Like the rest of us, he had heard that one of the game's legendary figures, Gene Sarazen, had died at 97.

Just last month, Sarazen joined two 87-year-old greats, Sam Snead and Byron Nelson, in hitting the ceremonial tee shots to officially start the Masters tournament. That tradition has honored those three since 1981.

Sarazen, wearing his trademark knickers, could hit the ball only 140 yards, about half as far as today's young stars, but he smiled as it sailed straight down the fairway.

He died from complications of pneumonia; in other words, very old age.

Sarazen almost went to that Great Golf Course in the Sky at age 16, when he contracted pneumonia and then such a severe case of pleurisy that he was given the last rites of the Catholic church. Doctors had to drill holes in his ribs to help drain the fluid.

His family was told he no longer could work indoors in his father's carpentry business, so Gene got a job at a golf course where people played the game he loved.

In the late 1930s, in the dignified Masters tournament, the upand-coming "Slammin' Sammy" Snead played one round in his bare feet, the way he grew up.

On a dare, to the amusement of the crowd, Snead kicked off his shoes and socks, rolled up his slacks and squirmed his toes around in the soft grass.

he shot a four-under-par 68 but Sarazen, known as the Square Squire from Connecticut, confronted him afterward.

"Whose corn-plaster stunt was this?" hollered Sarazen. "What are you trying to play around here, Snead? Huckleberry Finn? What we need are real 'masters,' not barefoot hillbillies."

THE PFARR CORNER Jerry Pfarr

"Heck, Gene," said Snead, "I only wanted to see how good the Georgia grass felt."

"Mr. Gene Sarazen to you!" snapped the Squire.

That anecdote is from Snead's 1962 book, "The Education of a Golfer."

"From then on," Snead wrote,
"Sarazen needled me in print whenever possible, once remarking that if it wasn't for golf I'd be back shining shoes in Hot Springs, Va."

Another famous pro, Jimmy Demaret, remarked, "Heck, if it wasn't for golf, Sarazen would be back on a banana boat between Naples and Sicily."

Said Snead: "Gene should be the last to squawk; all golfers remember his weird proposal to double the size of the cup to eight inches."

Sarazen and Snead mellowed with age, became pals and roomed together at tournaments.

Sarazen was christened Eugenlo Saraceni but changed his name when he saw it in a newspaper after winning a local tournament in Connecticut.

"My old name was fine for a violin player," he explained, "but lousy for a golfer."

A "fade" in golf is a shot that, while going a decent distance, also curves gently from left to right. So, with apologies to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, there's a corny golf cliche that fits here:

"Old golfers never die, they just fade away."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Osmond defends process for awarding scholarships would like to respond to the letter of May 14, "Disappointing Lawmaker" by Luke Mullins. I believe that the writer is somewhat confused on his facts. HB 1804 deals with the Secretary of State Police and does not contain any funds coming from Washington. If there is some other funding perhaps the members of the committee should have been advised. This bill never came to the House for a vote. The bill currently is in the Rules Committee of which I am not a member.

Yes, I did vote to keep the General Assembly Scholarships. I feel that it gives an opportunity to families who might not be able to handle the financial burden. Unlike the past history in other district, 62nd district for the past 16 years has always established a committee to judge these applications. I thought that this was a positive way to handle it. I asked seven individuals, educators, businessmen, homemakers and seniors to judge the applicants on the basis of scholastic ability, community involvement and need. I never reviewed the list and was not present when the decisions were made. I feel strongly that this was handled with fairness and without political bias.

The statements contained in Mullins' letter challenges the ability of the students applying. I believe that the students are of outstanding character and ability. I only regret that I cannot award every student that takes the time and effort to apply.

The reason that most legislators dislike the General Assembly Scholarship is for this very reason. You did not check out your facts and accused me of something that was not correct.

Timothy H. Osmond State Representative

Is there a compromise? This letter is in response to the leaf burning ban.

I live in the Antioch Township.
We can't burn because there is a ban against burning. Some of my neighbors burn and get away with it because the neighbors around them burn and don't call it in. If I burn I get called in by the two neighbors that do burn even though one supposedly has asthma.

There must be some kind of compromise. We don't want to pay for their doctor bill, and they don't want to pay for the cost of our leaf pickup; yard waste bags five for $1.99 up to $2.99, tags for each bag at $3 each, or you can pay in the neighborhood of around $93 for waste pickup from April through November.

I don't think the Antioch Township has the funds or the equipment to go around picking up the yard waste either. Again we rake in the spring when township is putting away snow removal equipment and getting ready to fix the roads from winter. They do not have money, manpower, time nor equipment for yard waste.

Our neighborhood is going to have a spring cleanup week. That does not include the yard waste.

In 1998 I spent $45 to have leaves picked up by Waste Management. That does not include the cost of yard waste bags. I haven't got a bill yet for my spring leaf cleanup. That does not include prior years or years to come.

Can't we get one month in spring or early summer for burning of leaves and another month in the fall? That way the people that have asthma can work around those dates. Everyone would be burning in one month instead of all spring summer and fall.

I am for leaf burning and so are quite a few of my neighbors. Especially my neighbors that have huge lots. They would need hundreds of bags. The oak leaves do not disintegrate.

Thank you for letting me express my feelings on this matter.

Auto fraud crack down approved errort to crack down on con artists in Lake County who alter vehicle titles gained approval of the Senate.

"People often delete information or alter vehicle titles to misrepresent the age or condition of a vehicle and sell it at a higher price," said Geo-Karis (R-Zion). "Innocent people are taken in by these scams and not only lose money, but end up spending more to repair an unreliable car or to buy another vehicle altogether. The offenders just pocket Senator Adeline Geo-Karis' their profits and find another car title to alter and sell to another unknowing victim."

Under current law, anyone who deletes or falsifies information on a title document is guilty of a Class A misdemeanor (under one year). House Bill 2630 would increase penalties for any second offense to a Class 3 felony (2 to 5 years).

House Bill 2630 was sponsored by Rep. Lauren Beth Gash (D-Deerfield) in the House of Representatives where the measure now returns for approval of an amendment eliminating a provision that required a second offense to occur within five years of a previous conviction in order to trigger the increased penalties.

'Reap' the rewards of a healthy growing garden

"April showers bring May flowers," the adage goes. However, when it comes to gardening — a pastime that lasts year-round — showers alone don't cut it.

In order to have a lush and vibrant garden harvest of flowers, vegetables, herbs and spices — not to mention a healthy lawn adorned with bustling leafy trees and well-kept hedges — you'll have to get working on your greens.

Whether your garden spans across acres of land, a few yards or merely the length of your urban apartment's window box, that plot of land requires special care and attention. But before you begin imagining the solace of tending your garden under the sun while the warm rays massage your shoulders and back, or the thrill of picking the season's first harvest, you need to consider a few basic items that will help you sow the seeds for a successful garden.

Tools — You may have a "green thumb," but usually it takes a tool in hand to make it useful. Some basic tools every gardener should own include gardening gloves, a hand fork and trowel, pruners, a spade, fork and hoe, a watering can and hose, wheelbarrow, lawn mower, and rake.

Soil — More often than not, what your garden yields only is as good as the soil it grows from, so healthy soil should be every gardener's top priority. A good place to start is with digging into and turning over the soil. This increases the amount of air spaces in the soil and encourages plant growth. Clearing away weeds and debris also is important, and when necessary, weedkiller and fertilizer can remedy problem soil conditions.

Bulbs and seeds — Before you select the bulbs or seeds you'd like to plant, consider what kind of climate is most suitable for what you're planting. Consider the maximum growth the plant will achieve, how it will thrive in your specific soil conditions, and what kind of aesthetic appeal it might contribute in relation to the other plants or trees you're planning to grow.

Trees, shrubs and flowers — In addition to new bulbs and seeds, you need to make time for the plants you've already grown. Pruning trees and shrubs encourages them to flower and grow, while keeping them manageable and neat. Flowers, specifically roses, annuals and some perennials, benefit from deadheading — removing dead flower heads to encourage new buds.

Lawn — Mowing the lawn makes grass more dense and less susceptible to weeds. Grass grows most rapidly during mild or cool weather, especially when the ground is moist, so you'll have to mow more frequently in the spring and fall to keep a well-tended lawn. In summer, or when the weather is warm and dry, mow less frequently and set the mower blades higher.

Borders, fences and hedges — From elaborate landscaping to creative boundaries to shading to just plain privacy, the reasons for creating borders, raising fences or planting hedges are many. A border of flowers or plants can lend a personalized, artistic mark to a garden. Fences, which range from sturdy constructions to lighter-weight trellises, can provide an effective screen as well as an ideal place to plant climbers, hedges or various vines.

Gardening is year-round, yet rewarding work. The more you tend to your garden, the more responsive it will be. So, get your tools ready and "plot" your agenda — you'll soon be reaping the ripe rewards of a healthy, well-kept garden.

Choosing the right furniture to compliment your home

hether it's cuddling up on a sofa to watch the Sunday night movie, curling up in bed for a restful night's sleep or sitting in a chair to read the latest best seller, the comforts of home oftentimes rest in its furniture. All too often, however, Americans purchase furniture based on style alone, never initiating comfort or questioning the quality.

Coming Home, the home products division of Lands' End, recently introduced a new line of casual home furniture, and in the process, developed essential tried and true tips on how consumers can select practical furniture for their homes. "We based these furniture selection tips on consumer feedback that we obtained during the development stages of our new furniture," said Rob Hayes, general merchandise manager for Coming Home. "We learned consumers can avoid many long-term furniture frustrations by looking for the right quality and features, before rushing into the purchasing decision." Sinking into Comfort with the Right Sofa and Chair

Although the chair is the most frequently purchased piece of furniture in the American home, Hayes believes it is also the most challenging to select. "Many people purchase a chair based on how it will look in a room, giving little consideration of its function, comfort or quality." According to Hayes, this is a big mistake. "Because Americans tend to spend a large portion of relaxation time in their own 'personal' chair. It is important to choose one based on its 'fit' to avoid discomfort." Hayes recommends that consumers look for chairs and sofas with back support; a deep seat; sufficient cushioning combined with mid-back support; durable fabric; practical style and versatile color, plus a foot rest option is always welcome.

Coming Home spent months designing and re-designing an exclusive chair and sofa, which includes all of these quality features. To ensure the highest degree of comfort, Coming Home worked with Mitchell Gold, the industry leader in combining comfort with classic style. The upholstered sofa and chair have an exclusive "dual-chamber" lumbar support which provides a softer chamber of cushion on top of a firm one for maximum lower back support. Additionally, frames are cornerbraced, double doweled for durability and made of kiln-dried hardwood so they don't bow or mildew. "Generous proportions, deep, extra cushion, rounded corners and roll arms lend our sofa and chair an irresistible appeal," Hayes said. "We took a reputable line of quality, classic furniture and made customized improvements in order to achieve a top quality, exclusive line."

In response to one of the age-old furniture challenges, Hayes suggests finding slipcovers that are 100 percent washable and can be easily put on and removed. Coming Home's new cotton twill slipcovers come in three shades, natural, desert khaki and birch, and are durable and easy to use, making them child and pet-friendly.

A Love for Leather Leather furniture can combine a traditional look with fresh style, to give a room a handsome, rich flair.

To answer some of the common questions often associated with leather, Hayes says the most important thing to look for is soft leather, such as nubuck, that can provide 'overstuffed' comfort. "Soft leather, extra padding and easy care are the ideal features that leather lovers often find themselves forfeiting," Hayes said. Coming Home's new leather club chair was designed by keeping the typical leather furniture concerns and suggestions in mind. It was exclusively designed to offer handsome, classic style and undeniable comfort. "We added so much padding to our club chair, that we had to search for a fine suede-like nubuck leather that would be soft enough to cover it. We also wanted the chair to offer a deeper seat, higher back and sinuous springs for better cushion support so that even 'sideways sitters' would be satisfied."

Dreamy Delights

The perfect finish to a bedroom is a bed that offers character and enhances the look of the entire room. In fact, according to Hayes, the material of the bed frame, be it metal or

It's important to change the right style of furniture to compliment your personnal taste

wood, can have a great impact on the overall look of a bedroom. "While the look of Coming Home's new metal and wooden frames modify styles of the past, they have an altogether different feel," Hayes says that metal post-like beds can provide a romantic elegance reminiscent of several decor inspirations, especially European royalty, modernistic trends and antique American styles. Wooden bentwood beds, with classic lined frames, can enhance a country-like dcor or provide a more masculine look.

The Final Furniture Analysis

Hayes says that consumers should always ask themselves the questions about style, practicality, comfort, quality and durability when looking for a piece of furniture for the home. With the introduction of Coming Home's new furniture line, customers will receive white glove delivery. Each item ordered will be hand delivered and set up, including the possibility of rearranging furniture and removing packaging material, just two weeks after the order is placed. "It only seems natural to provide top quality delivery service to match the quality of the furniture we're offering," Hayes said.

First rose in space

A new, intensely fragrant miniature rose, Overnight ScentsationTM, is the first flowering plant to be launched into space. The inbloom plant accompanied John Glenn and NASA's STS-95 crew on last October's historic flight of the space shuttle Discovery.

Overnight Scentsation was selected by NASA and International Flowers and Fragrances Inc. for an experiment designed to evaluate the effects of prolonged microgravity on fragrance, since it is not known whether scents that are familiar to us on earth smell different in space.

This rose, which is among the world's most fragrant miniatures, was an excellent choice for this experiment. It is not only intensely fragrant, with strong, sweet, pure rose scent, but it is a vigorous plant that produces myriads of large, bright medium pink flowers with lots of petals.

Introduced in 1998 by Nor'East Miniature Roses Inc., Overnight Scentsation, the first rose in space, is available for you to grow in your very own garden. The plant grows to

New carpet and rug style - in step with fashion

Carpet and rug makers are putting the pedal to the floor and quickening the pace of fashion-forward flooring. Now following the trends in other areas of home furnishings more closely than before, today's flooring is more fashionable and has abundant selections.

The flooring industry has its annual big show at Surfaces, where both broadloom and rug manufacturers from the United States and beyond parade their new styles on their own sort of catwalks. Seen at Surfaces this past winter and coming to stores this spring is more color, more rugs, and more pattern. In addition, technology is giving new rugs an "old" look, extending the range of great design at lower price points, and creating both rugs and carpets which are easier to care for. There is even an innovation that makes carpet glow in the dark.

to a number of factors, not the least of which is the improvement in synthetics with the look and feel of wool. Recognizing that most consumers have a color, style and budget in mind, rather than a fiber requirement, manufacturers rushed to introduce or expand their offering of synthetics, such as polypropylene. Today's manmade materials are so refined that snob appeal about natural fibers is vanishing fast.

The rug market is booming due

This spring, stores will introduce area rugs with built-in Scotchgard protection. Oriental Weavers of America is the first company to tailor its manufacturing process to build in soil resistance on its entire line of rugs, which is woven of polypropylene. This high-tech fiber has inherent resistance to waterbased spills, but the Scotchgard protection now shields against soil and oil-based stains as well.

The Oriental Weavers of America line features one of the most popular looks going: the new 'old' look. Traditional reproductions replete with distressing thanks to "tea-washes" and "herbal finishes" are predominating in a variety of hues. For everyone who loves the antique look, machines are able to emulate the look of expensive hand-knotted Oriental rugs at a fraction of the price. The company's collection, Ancient Inspirations, was an unqualified hit and will be at carpet specialty retailers as well as J.C. Penney stores.

The need to create an individualized style once again in the statement areas of the home is driving the resurgence of patterned carpet. Likewise, the intricate designs on rugs have spilled over to the wall-

Reggie Resistant from Shaw, a favorite for child-inhabited households, introduced glow-in-the-dark carpets in styles for children's rooms as well as recreation spaces. Without a doubt, that brings something new to the carpet store on Main Street.

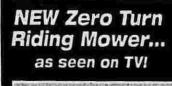

The color brown is strong and shifting from deep, rich shades to cocoas and tans, a reflection of sisal's influence. But in the race for color champion, blue is ready to. step into the lead ahead of green. The rising appeal of blue is partly attributed to increased ethnic influences from Asia, Morocco and Turkey. A more spiritual color, blue also shows our outlook on the millennium, color experts say, as a time to refresh and renew. How To Survive The Job Search By Nancy Sakol

Q: I am presently employed with (name withheld) full time. I have been here for the past three months. My supervisor approached me yesterday to say that I have been late on three occasions in the past 2 weeks and that for the next 30 days I must report to work on time. She said that any violation of this will be cause for termination of my job. While I admitted to her that I knew I was late on those days, I tried to explain to her that I also work another job 5 days a week and will try to make an effort to be here on time. She did not seem to be so sympathetic to the fact that I have to work 2 jobs in order to make ends meet. Now I have to watch myself every day to make sure I am to work on time, but I don't think it is fair that the company doesn't understand and cut me some slack. I have read that sometimes if a someone writes to you with a problem, you have offered to step in and help. Can you possibly step in and give me some advice before I lose my job? R.D. -Round Lake Beach

A: The company that you are referring to has a pretty standard policy across the board. They operate between the hours of 7:30 and 4:30 and require their employees to do the same. Upon hire you were given a handbook noting the terms and conditions of hire which clearly states the need to be on time for work or appropriate action is taken. This is for everyone with unexcused absences as well as unexcused tardiness. Personally, I do not think it is asking too much, nor is it unreasonable for an employer to expect their employees to show up for work on time and work their required hours. This company, I am told, does not require any overtime so there is nothing unreasonable about a required 40-hour work week. The best I can tell you, is that if you cannot show up for work on time, then the problem is yours. If they made an adjustment to the schedule for you, then they would have to make an adjustment for all of their employees. According to your report, it shows that there have been three instances in 4 weeks where you have reported for work a minimum of 15-30 minutes late. Not good! If you are having a difficult time getting out the door to report on time, try setting your alarm for 1/2 hour earlier than normal. You will feel better by not having to rush. Another option is to speak with your night job and see if they can be somewhat flexible with your hours. Perhaps you can cut down your hours there. You may be burning the candle at both ends and exhausting yourself unnecessarily. Perhaps you should search for a job that will net you more money for one job to compensate for the two jobs you are now holding to support yourself. Not only could that help you financially, but also allow you some time for yourself. Think of these as options to consider, however the word is ... you must comply with the rules of your daytime employer. You have been given a 30-day probationary period to get it together. The rules might be too stringent for your liking, but the truth is, they are not concerned about what you do after 4:30 p.m. All they expect is 7:30 to 4:00 Monday through Friday. What you do after hours is your business, unless of course it is affecting their business. Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee. Letters can be sent to Nancy Sakol c/o Lakeland Newspapers, P.O. Box 268, Grayslake, IL 60030 PLACEM1@aol.com

School Seniors

Parents, Grandparents, Friends...

It seems like only yesterday they were off to kindergarten and now they're off to embrace the future! Share your pride and joy by placing a special tribute to your high school graduate. Send us your favorite childhood picture of the graduating senior, along with your personal message and we will include it in our June 11 issue of Lakeland Newspapers and June 15 issue of The Market Journal.

Grace, Great job getting into Harvard! You worked hard to get there! You're still my little ham. Love, Mom

Lucas, Way to go! Don't forget to follow your dreams! I love you very much, Tina

The Price is $20

Prepayment is required Deadline is June 7, 1999

To have your photo returned you must include a self-addressed stamped envelope with your order.

Please mail your picture to: Attn: Mike Nobler, c/o Lakeland Publishers 30 S. Whitney St., Grayslake, IL 60030 or call 847-223-8161
